Senior Focus

These seniors are having a fun time at their last Homecoming Parade. Patrick Cosgriff, Casey Kanode, Linny Bradley, Amanda Sutherland, Ray Lian, and Brian Lee show their school spirit by riding in the back of the senior truck driven by Andrew Kisela.

A change in hair color and style proved to Eric Buchanan that maybe blondes do have more fun.

They think they are special, huh? Well, coming down Old Lee Highway, school President Matt Hilton and Vice President Andy Nix know they are important to the Homecoming activities.

Showing his school spirit, Gideon McKay holds up a sign to say that the juniors are all pooped out and that is why their float looked like it did.

After the pep rally, Amy Bosman, Lena Ghannam, April Olsick, and Alison Scovers pose for a picture with the famous Spirit Stick which the seniors win every year.

Coming into Focus

The year began on a hot, humid morning in September. Sure, all school years begin on days like that, but not all school years are during 1996-1997. This one was different, due to a lot of changes.

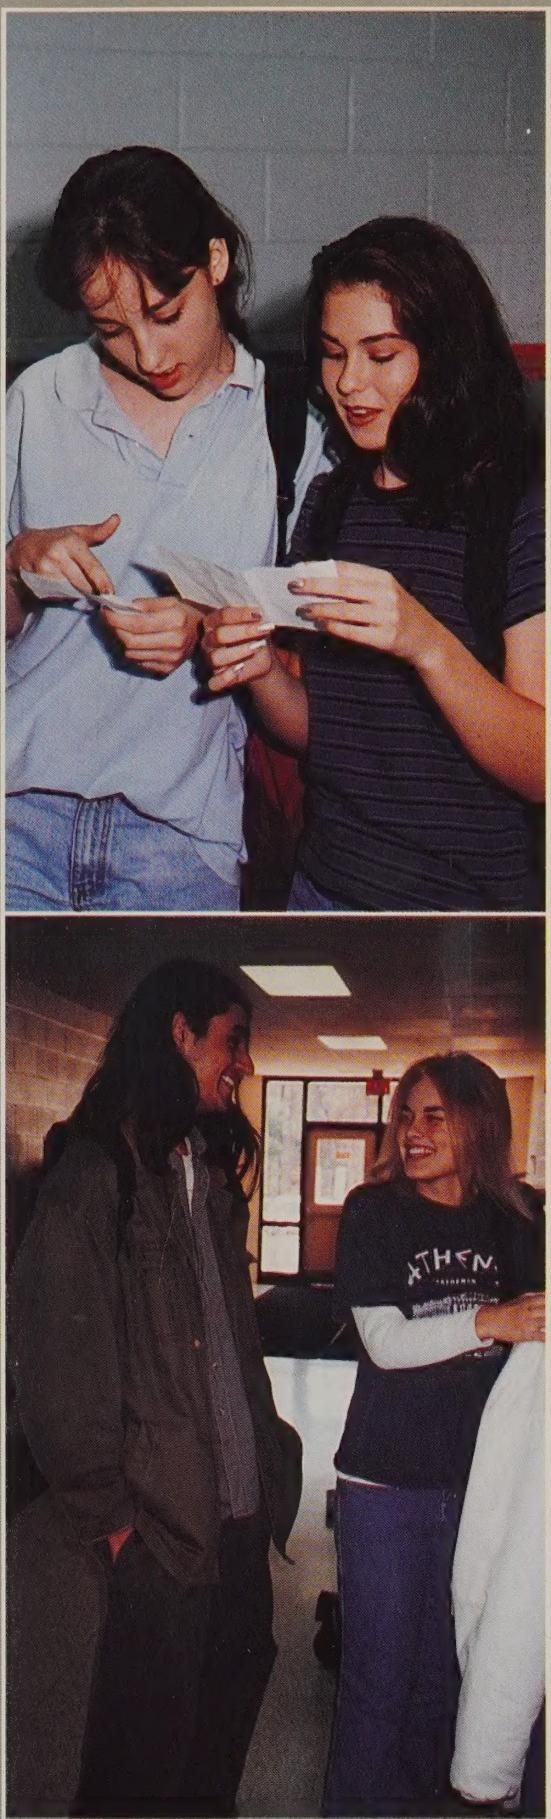

Some changes were evident immediately. Starting ten minutes early went into effect this year, surprising some students. Returning students leisurely walked into first period on the first day of school at 7:29, only to realize that class started almost ten minutes ago. Luckily, most teachers did not start enforcing attendance until the second week of school. It was difficult not to notice the flyers posted around the doors stating "Fairfax is a hat-free school. Please remove hats before entering." After realizing that it was not part of an evil, night-before-the-first-day-of-school-nightmare, students were forced to remove their hats and walk around the halls, with bad hair and with their heads feeling naked. The fact that enrollment reached 1660 students this year has been felt by many- mostly in between classes. The halls at FHS are more crowded than ever and everyone seems to be ten times more slow. It would not be a problem if students actually knew how to walk (not into others, as what usually happens, but just walk). Oh, this increase in the number of students also means that we get to enjoy people screaming in our ears on a more frequent basis. Hey, it's nice to have something to look forward to, right?

The other major change this year was the addition of many new classes. It was probably not noticed unless you or one of your friends were taking one of the new classes. A.P. Psychology took the traditional Psychology course to a new, more in-depth level. Anatomy students learned how their bodies function. Geosystems combined geology with other science such as astronomy. Enrollment in these and the other new classes was very high, so they'll be around for a while.

In the beginning, it was kind of difficult getting used to the changes, but students adapted nicely. Pretty soon the "Whadda ya mean?"s turned into "Oops, I forgot"s. Changes are good. They make the year definitely more interesting.

Of course, everybody knows the best change was the senior parking being repaved. It looks great-talk about senior privilege!

Focus on us

When looking closely at the Fairfax student body we can see that there are many different things that make students unique. Whether it is playing a role in the fall play or having completed a great work of art.

With ninety-six being an election year many seniors were able to get involved with different campaigns. From presidential organizations to local congressmen students got to experience what goes on behind the scenes.

Juniors were embarking on one of their toughest years and having to deal with SAT's and college selections looming around the corner.

Getting a car and getting a license is one of the primary concerns of your basic sophomore year. Cars are freedom and everyone wants more freedom.

Fairfax can be a big place to a new freshmen, trying to fit in and figure out how the school works. It's actually smaller than it looks.

Whether students are hitting the books or relaxing on the weekends a student's life is never boring.

Summer Sizzle

"I'll take warm over cold any day. I like the long summer nights, being with friends and not having to worry about anything. Having the freedom to do what you want when you want, is something everybody lives for. Being able to go to the beach with one of my long time friends is an experience I will never forget."

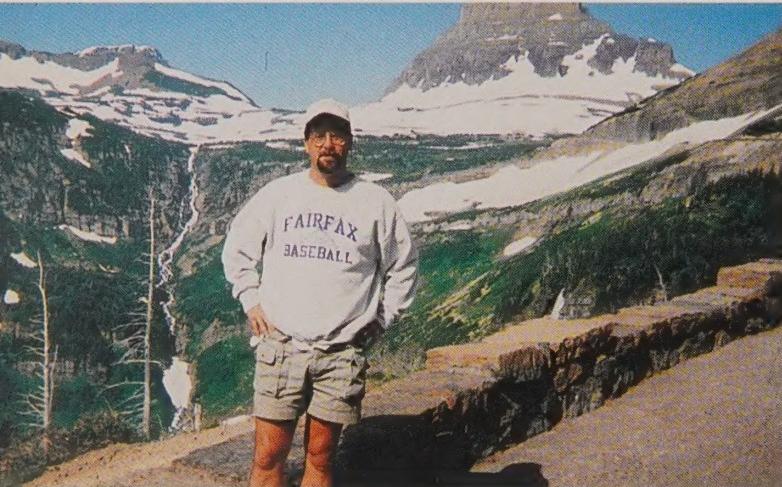

-Steve Long

As the temperature rose, so did the excitement of all the students awaiting the summer fun. The warm sun, the hot sand under their feet, the hardly-covered bodies, and hanging out with your friends were all part of last year's summer fever. Waiting nine months for a vacation can drive students crazy. The summer break was well earned and long overdue.

Going to the beach, visiting different places, and seeing different sites are just a few things that kids do during the summer. "I loved my summer. I had a chance to visit another country and come back in time to spend one month partying with my friends before my last nine months of high school," said senior Nicole Davis.

Summer for some people meant two months of freedom and relaxation, but for others it meant two months of working, trying to save up money. "I didn't work to save money; I worked so that I had money to spend. It taught me responsibility and showed me what it was like in the real world," said senior Sharon Feeney.

"This summer I spent a week at Lake Champion in New York with Young Life. My new friends and I went water rafting, canoeing, and dirt bike riding," said sophomore Brandon Payne. After the excitement of the new school year had worn off, plans for next summer were already underway. See ya at the beach!

English teacher Mr. Ondrof is overwhelmed at the beauty in Glacier National Park.

In Atlanta Georgia, senior Natasha Pollard stands in the International Crafts Fair hanging around with friends. "At the fair I got to see how different cultures are," said says.

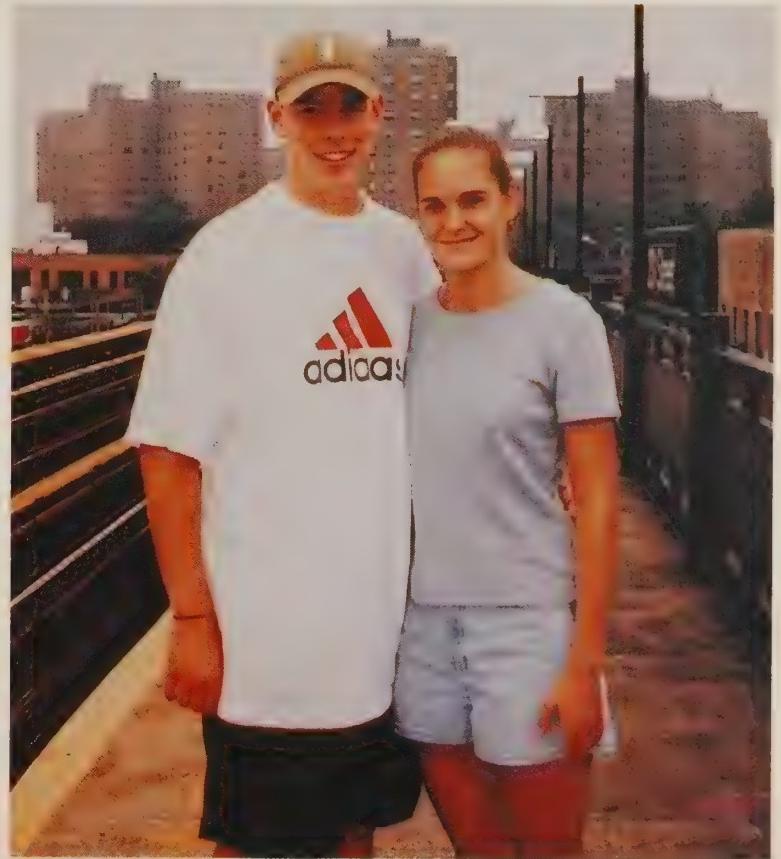

Standing in front of the President's House in Brazil, senior Nicole Davis comments, "I had a great time. There were no laws, no police, and everyone is happy. All the people there seem to enjoy life a lot better. It was a great learning experience. It was like traveling to another world."

Seniors Kristy Roderick, Linda Young, Melissa Weyrick, and junior Katie Laing had the privilege of meeting some of the 1996 Olympic athletes.

One of the many tourist attractions that sophomore Katerina Ossenova saw was the Eiffel Tower in Paris, France, when she traveled throughout Europe this summer.

Down in Richmond this summer, senior Sharon Feeney cuddles up with a college friend from Virginia Commonwealth University. "Living with my sister and a house full of college guys was great. There were no parents and parties every night. I can't wait till I graduate."

In Brooklyn, senior Garry Sealock stands with his girlfriend Alison Scovers. "It was the best vacation of my life," commented Alison.

During the pep rally, senior Brennan Fowler raises his head in pride of winning a contest for the Class of '97.

Good friends Brian Lee, Steve Long, Jenny Cohen and Natasha Pollard model their senior crowns at the pep rally.

The football players show that they know how to get themselves and the students excited for Friday's game.

Pump It Up!!

The gym echoed with the noise of the student body as they cheered during the pep rally for their class. This event ended a full week of school spirit, and got everyone excited for the big football game against Broad Run.

Between all the spirit points and pie-eating contests at lunch, many students had really gotten into the spirit of things, and were trying their hardest to help their class win each event. Carley Olsen put it well when she said "I think Spirit Week gives the whole school a sense of spirit because they're participating and doing something together to help their class." Merril Jelinek seemed to feel the same way. "I think Spirit Week builds spirit and class unity and there is no doubt in my mind that the class with the most spirit is the class of '99!"

Some people also had a set idea as to which day was their favorite. "I like Wacky Tacky Day. It's hilarious to watch people make fools of themselves on purpose," said Sean McDonald. Sophomore Josh Hawkins' favorite day was College Day because, "It's the easiest day and more people participate." However, some people had more negative things to say about it. Jon Behrmann said that his favorite day was "the day after the last."

Some students complained that the rules of the pep rally and Spirit Week had gotten a little too strict. As sophomore Mary Molloy commented, "There are always going to be restrictions, but the whole week was still a lot of fun."

Even though the regulations of Spirit Week have gotten a little stricter, it still served its purpose in exciting the students for the Homecoming Game.

During a contest at lunch, participants shove their faces into pie in hopes of winning the pie-eating event for their class.

The Class of '97 shows it is the class with the most spirit. The seniors had a great time at their last Homecoming Pep Rally.

Enthusiastic seniors Liz Hall, Nora Cho, Hannah Keith, and Melinda Guinn dress up to show their spirit on Decade Day.

Dancing the Night Away

"I loved Homecoming. I really enjoyed seeing everyone dressed up and dancing. The best part was dancing with my boyfriend, Jake. I could have danced all night long."

-Erica Elvey

The night wouldn't have been half as fun if I'd gone with anyone else!" sophomore Jason Bales commented about his great Homecoming experience.

Hundreds of students packed into the brightly decorated cafeteria for a night of moving and grooving. Although everyone had a great time dancing, most agreed that a different DJ should definitely be hired next year. There were complaints of too much bad techno-reggae music and not enough slow songs. "I can't believe they played the Macarena and YMCA!" said junior Lauren Bennett.

"Before the dance we all went to the Blue Iguana for dinner. Jimmy Estep got buffalo wings and it was hilarious watching him eat! The dance was fun but the DJ definitely needed improvement," senior Susan Schneider remarked about the evening. Most students joined a group of friends or just a date for pictures and then a peaceful dinner at a nice restaurant. "When we got to the dance it was great to see my classmates dressed so snazzy!" Mary Molloy said. For many couples the best part was seeing friends dressed up and going out after the dance in their dressy clothes. Justine McCracken said it best when she remarked, "The whole evening was great, I didn't want it to end."

Obviously these two are right in sync with the music! Saunora Prom and Rita Peralta enjoy a great Homecoming Dance.

Tired from a long night of dancing, freshman Aimee Gunn and her date from another school take a break.

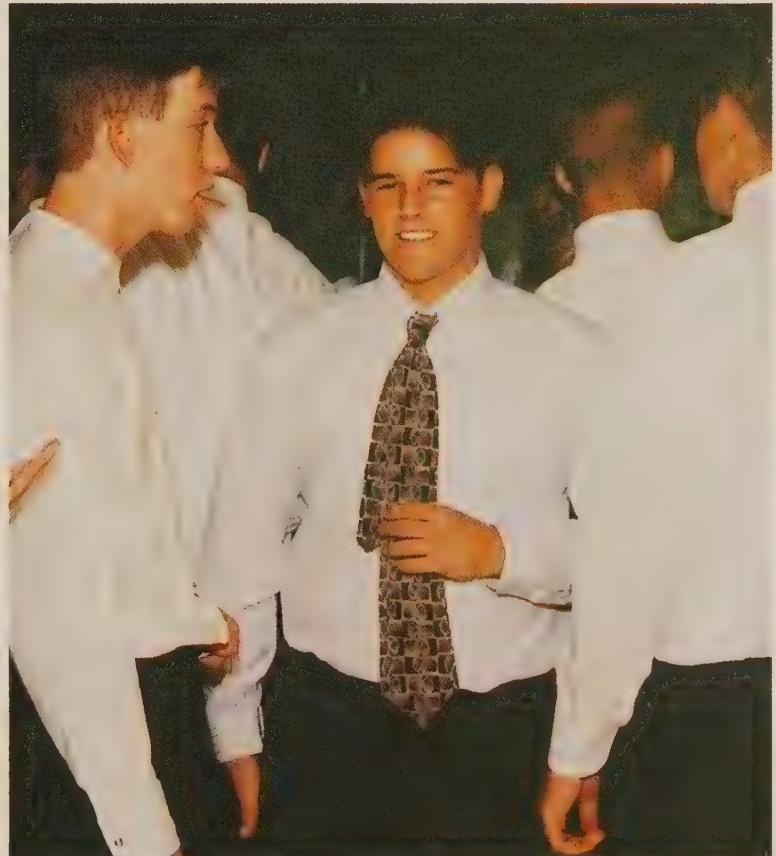

It's great to take a moment to relax during a slow song. Katie Neiler and her date Adam King take it easy.

Grooving to the Macarena, freshman Suzanne Haake and Robinson student Meagan Cosen concentrate on the next move.

Swaying to the music, Jill Parks stands out in the crowd wearing a red dress.

Dancing through the night, Cathy Parks has a great time with her date, Brent Forester.

All decked out for the big night, Scott McDermott and Sean Hanley talk with friends.

Crowding on the back of the pickup truck, Varsity Football players hoot and holler to get attention. The football players carried over their spirit as they went on to win the game against Broad Run.

Taking a break from playing their instruments, band members Nick Faber and Geoff Goode cheer on the football team. The band members were always loyal in their support for their team.

Marching down Rebel Run, Color Guard shows off their new eye-catching uniforms. Senior Marcy Siegel leads the way. The Color Guard always put on a great performance.

Homecoming Queen Nora Cho and Runner-up Melissa Weyrick pose for the camera. Both were deserving of the awards. It was a night to remember for them.

On the Road to Victory

The homecoming parade is one of the most special events of the school year. It's usually a perfect seventy-two degrees with a gentle breeze and the sun shining down. The sky is filled with small cotton ball clouds scattered against a light blue background. Everyone is in a good spirits for the Homecoming Game that night. You can see and feel it from the football players, cheerleaders, band players, the Dance Team, the Step Team, and Color Guard members as they pass by. Each class gets a chance to show off the float that they poured long hours of time into. To top it all off, there is nothing better than to watch the varsity football team stomp the opposing school. And when the home team wins the perfect day is complete, until next year when it starts all over again.

That pretty much sums up Homecoming from this year. It was not just the parade that made Homecoming so great, but the Court, the Dance, and the Pep Rally. All of these events made the 1996 Homecoming unforgettable!

FRESHMEN THE FAIRFAX HIGH SCHOOL

"Noises Off was definitely a non-stop adventure for the cast, crew, production staff, and most importantly, the audience."

-Director Bob Smith

There's nothing like a good old-fashioned plate of ...Curtain!" Thus ended the F/X Players Fall Production, Noises Off. Dubbed the best show to ever come out of the Fairfax High School Theatre by staff and students alike, this hilarious farce, written by Michael Frayn, raised the roof, and brought down the house. Breaking dramatic convention, Director Bob Smith chose to leave the curtain open between Act One and Act Two, allowing the audience to view the backstage crew move the massive two-story set. Set in modern day England, Noises Off is the story of a beleaguered troupe of actors and their director Lloyd, desperately trying to salvage their production of Nothing On. No thanks to Lloyd's drinking, philandering ways, and more love triangles among the cast than eight people should be able to handle. Finally pulling it all together in the final act, the show ended with a sequence of door-slammimg that took many hours of preparation and rehearsal to get to show status. Judging by the reaction of the audience, all the hard work and preparation paid off. Actor Chris Gannon, who played the part of Garry, said " It was very gratifying to see the audience have such a good reaction to the show. I'm glad we were able to pull it all together and put on a good performance."

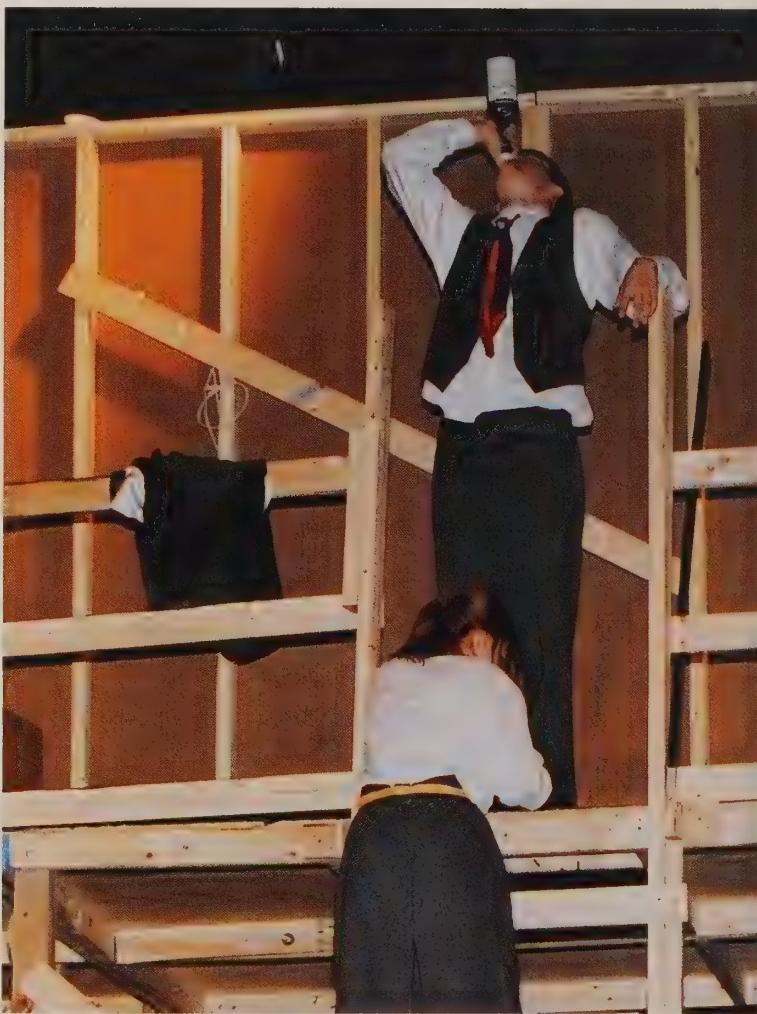

Pressed for time, Alexandra Stefan and Chris Gannon rush to escape notice. They played lovers in Nothing On.

Taking a long swig from the whiskey bottle, Josh King chokes. Josh played Lloyd Dallas, the director of Nothing On.

Scurrying up the ladder for their next entrance, Chris Gannon and Leslie Cooley pause to catch their breath.

Members of the cast gather around Vicki at the end of Act One to offer her sardines. Sardines played a major role in the play.

Painstakingly adding the finishing touches to the performance, director Bob Smith points out stage directions.

Helplessly watching the play fall apart is Kristin Wiggins, playing the part of Poppy, stage manager of Nothing On. She nervously awaits disaster.

Steadfastly performing the duties of Stage Electrician, Angie Sweigart rapidly attempts to repair props backstage.

Daze of our Lives

It's the weekend! How are you going to spend it? "Partying, clubbing, raving, and working.", Cynthia Boedihardjo says. She's not alone- that's the kind of answer most Fairfax High School students would give.

Many people go home after school pick up the phone, call every single person they know and, as Jessica Grimsley puts it, "Who's house tonight?" People wait for their parents to leave for a weekend trip and have a party.

Matt Hilton says, "I'm headed to the beach as much as I can." If you don't go downtown very much, then you would respond just like Melissa Weyrick. When asked what she does on the weekends she replied, "Around here?"

The most enjoyable weekends come around when other schools have large parties where you meet tons of new people. But when there are no parties, most of the school agrees with Casey Kanode, who says, "Mac again?"

Although there is a large portion of the school that enjoys partying there is of course another large portion that doesn't. Liz Hall says , "I meet guys at baseball games, stalk them, and have them make me dinner." Others like Steph Schneider enjoy both having a fast weekend and kicking back, "studying and practicing."

For the most part, people don't complain about their weekend and everyone agrees with Paul Ransom who says, "I live for them!"

Friends forever Matt Hilton and Ginger, Melissa Weyrick's dog, relax after spending a long Saturday together.

Seniors Casey Kanode and Roberto Galindo spent their extended weekend at Ocean City.

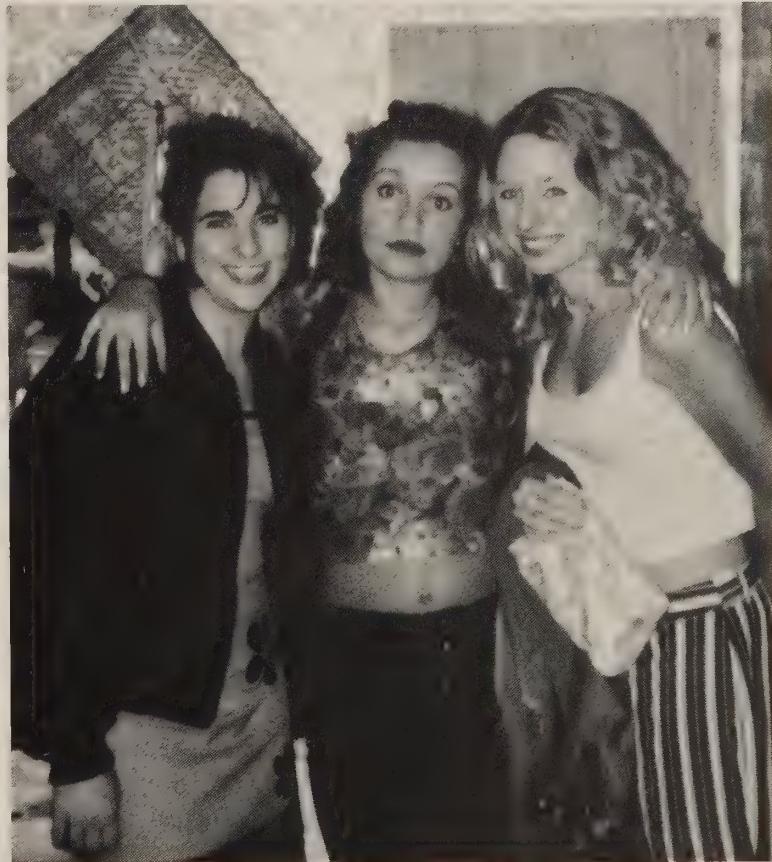

Going out to dinner after a soccer tournament are Pat Cosgriff, Craig Caputo, Katie Laing, Melissa Weyrick, Matt Hilton, and Amy Hightower.

The San Francisco treat, junior Tanya Buxton spent her long weekend seeing sights with her friends.

Enjoying the beautiful scenery are Kate Kifonidos, Neardy Vanny and Jennifer Cross. They like going to Skyline Drive on their weekends.

Exchanging Cultures

How does America compare with your home country?

"It is little different. People are more caring and friendly, and other differences are only details. For example in America everything is so far. You need a car to get to school, to stores, everywhere. In my country, Czech Republic, we have everything close, so I can walk almost everywhere and I am not dependent on someone else to drive me here. So maybe it is the only thing I miss here."

-Zuzana Nerudova

"It is really different, we don't have every class everyday and you have the same people in every class. We have thirteen years of school and the teachers come to our room."

-Stefanie Speh

"In Spain I live in a big city with high buildings, many cars and a lot of people. We live in flats. The distance to go from one place to another are short we go by bus or metro everywhere. Here people live in houses with gardens. They have two or three cars. They have to take their car everywhere.

-Anna Alsina

"Here in America, I had a lot of difficulties making friends. I think the people here are so close. In Brazil we usually have new friends. The other difference is in the weekends I usually, in Brazil, go to the bar and drink and return home whenever I want."

-Ana Luiza Catanheira

If you could change one thing about being a foreign exchange student in America, What would it be?

"[The] rules of my exchange organization, STS, will not permit me to drive. Everything else is great and I am very happy here."

-Zuzana Nerudova

"It costs a lot to call Germany, so I would change that."

-Stefanie Speh

"I wanna change the system, ALSE, my organization, because I think [they] have so much rules and laws like at eleven-thirty I need to return home."

-Ana Luiza

ROUGH and TOUGH

The tension had started even before the ball was snapped. The night before the game, unknown juniors had painted over the 97 emblem next to the bleachers on the football field, replacing the 97 with a 98. This was to retaliate for the seniors who had attacked e juniors during practice with everything from salad dressing to chocolate syrup.

On Saturday October 26, the two classes were ready to settle their differences. It was cool night with a steady light drizzle, making the grass slick. The stage was set for an ugly, -out war. At first, no real side had control of the game. The possession of the ball was nstantly changing. The scoreless tie was broken when Lena Ghannam rushed for a forty-five yard touchdown. The TD was followed up with a successful two point conversion pass from nda Young to Kristy Roderick. Later the juniors would answer with a TD of their own from sa Dowell. At the half the seniors had the lead with the juniors threatening. As the game tensified the seniors would answer with great plays from Malinda Khachi, and Beth Burling. eth would later be thrown out of the game on a terrible call by the referee. But when it was l said and done the final score was 18-8.

How did you feel about playing in your first Powder Puff game?

"It was fun, and it brought the junior class together."

Winter Carnival

People were wearing hippie clothes on Monday, sweats on Tuesday, and cheered on pie-eating contests during lunch. Wait a second! That sounds like Homecoming Week! Wasn't Homecoming Week in October-ages ago? It was, but during December, students again had a chance to show off their school spirit during Winter Carnival Week.

Monday was Hippie Day. It was hilarious when everyone showed up in tie-dye shirts and Peace jewelry. In most people's opinion, Tuesday's Bum-in Day was the best. The students loved coming to school in sweats and pajamas. The following day was Animal Day, where students came to school dressed in their favorite animal clothes. Thursday was the ideal Winter Carnival Day because school was cancelled due to... SNOW! The week ended with Class Day-each class was designated a color to wear to the pep rally.

Friday was fantastic because in addition to having a delayed opening due to snow, there was a pep rally, so classes were ultra-short. During the pep rally, winter sports teams were introduced along with the Winter Carnival Court. The twelve sexy studs that made up the Court excited the crowd and when it was time to vote, made the decision very difficult for students. Julio Vargas was proclaimed Winter Carnival King at the dance that night.

So the week ended with students feeling great and full of spirit. Man, at that rate, we couldn't wait to see what great activities SG had planned for spring!

Escorted by his two lovely sisters Melanie and Victoria Vargas, Julio was hoping that Melanie wouldn't poke him. Having his two sisters walk him in the pep rally showed the student body that Julio was a real sweetheart and deserved to win.

Having had Yearbook class together for the past two years, Steve Long was delighted that Natasha Pollard would escort him during the pep rally.

Look at this stud! Chad Martin shows off his rad sunglasses just to embarrass Katie Johnson, one of his best friends.

Showing that Matt Hilton can do anything being president, his secret service agents walk beside him. They were there to protect him if anything bad were to happen.

Just when you've thought you've worn your backpack every way possible, we've found a new way. These seniors demonstrate this funky fad as they walk to their classes.

People are stepping into many different types of shoes these days. Varieties range from Doc's, Vans, running shoes, to platforms.

If you don't set off the metal detector when you walk through the door, then you're not wearing enough metal. Rings are becoming a five-finger deal, the more the better.

Best friends since middle school, seniors Christina Nowakowski and Natasha Pollard, have gone through many changes along with fashion fads.

Express Yourself

Most people say, "You can't judge a book by its cover." In most cases that's true, except when it comes to your style of clothes. When you're walking down the hall you will notice many different styles. A person dressed all in black would be expressing the "Gothic" look and are also known to be quiet and mysterious. People wearing army green colored jackets with spikes and patches on them are sporting the "punk" look. These people usually have spiky or colored hair and can be found skanking on stage to the PieTasters, MU330 and other Ska bands. The "prep" look is known as khakis and polo shirts and Wes McLendon.

Just how big of a role does fashion play in our school? To many people it is a big deal and to others, they could care less what people think about them. Lindsey Cullin says, "Some people care about it more than others but most people just wear what they feel comfortable in." But in another sense, Kelly Lender thinks that some people consider it a "popularity contest."

Students walk around wearing everything from hemp necklaces, flare pants, platform shoes to tongue rings, navel rings, and hair highlights. A majority of students at Fairfax just want to be comfortable; as Steve Long says, "I just put on a tee shirt and jeans."

New in 1997

"I feel that my rights as a student in a Fairfax County have been violated by a civil virtue of self desecration. The sit-in will be taking place sometime in the near future."

-Kevin Gable

This past summer the Fairfax administration made a couple of changes to the 1997 school year.

This school year we have a new rule: NO HATS. Some teachers think that wearing a hat indoors is disrespectful, and some even think that the students put the answers to tests on the underside of the bill. Another reason is that everybody thinks that if you have a hat then you are in a gang. "I used to get good grades when I wore my hat. Now I fail without my thinking cap," explains junior Zach Gottlieb. "I had to cut my hair since I couldn't wear my hat," comments sophomore Brad Thomas. "One time there was this cow and he was wearing a hat. So we should be able to wear hats too," comments sophomore Andy Britt.

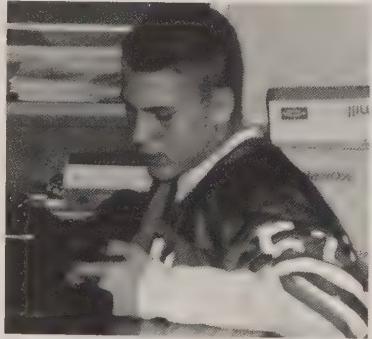

Another rule that the administration changed is that students are not allowed to chew gum. Gum is messy when students leave it on desks or drop it on the floor. Nicole Davis says, "The no-gum rule is dumb. Everybody in the school has bad breath."

Another new change this year is that school starts ten minutes earlier. Sophomore Brent Forester comments, "I can't do it because it's too early to find my underwear in the morning."

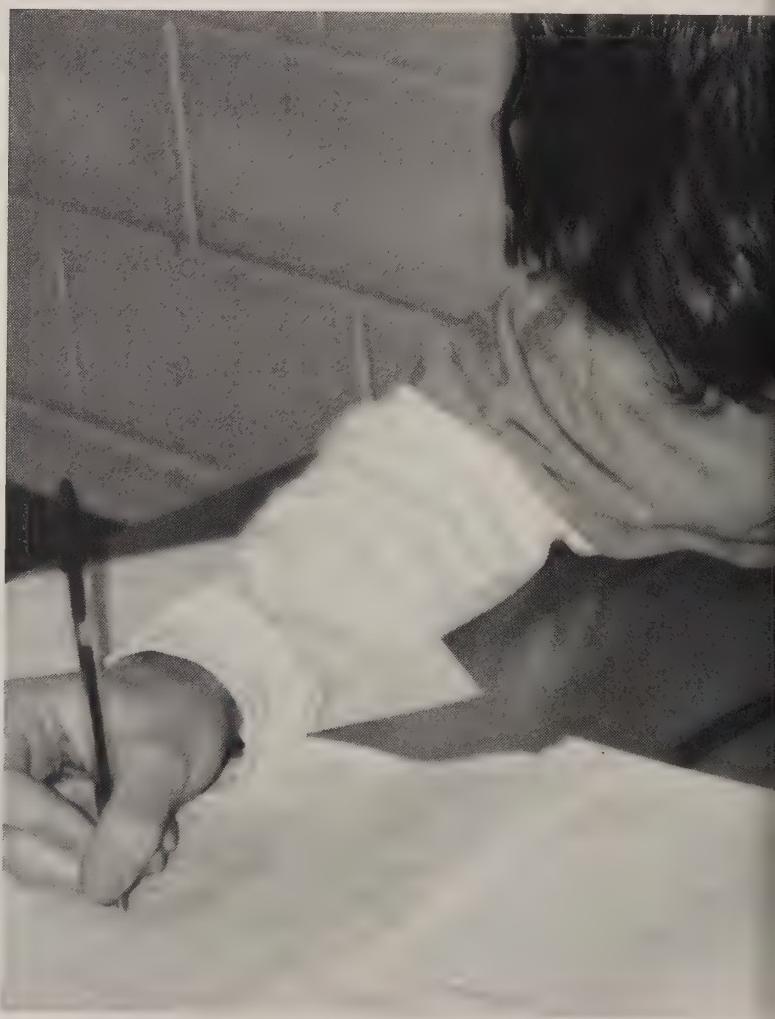

"The way this school's going, in ten years it will be a prison," says senior Gabe Gawen.

Hangin' Out

After school time is used in a lot of different ways by Fairfax High School students. Some spend their time organizing lockers, going to a sport, or helping Fairfax to be a better place.

There are many clubs and sports that give Fairfaxians the opportunity to move up in society and be successful. It is another way to keep kids off of the street and doing something positive. Still there are many people that go home and rest up for another day of school.

The positiveness and willingness of the students to do things right after school gives Fairfax the reputation that they deserve.

Together Forever

"Everyone should be like Dennis Rodman, then you don't need a friend."

- David Kettner

What do you think about when you hear the word friend? Do you think about someone who cares about you or do you think about someone to comfort you when you are down? Geneva Ardalan says, "Friends will always be there when no one else is." A friend is someone who does care about you and comforts you when you are down. "I see friends as somebody who sticks by you, somebody that you can talk to, somebody who understands you." explains Paul Ransom.

A friend is someone that you spend time with on weekends, or someone who spends the night at your house. A friend is someone who hangs out at your house when there is nothing to do, a friend is someone who you play sports with. Someone who hangs out with you if you are new at a certain school, that is a friend.

A friend is someone who will give you a ride to school in the morning on a snowy day, when you are sitting waiting for the bus. A friend is someone who comes over and sees you when you are really sick, and you are out of school. A friend is someone who you go to a night club with when you are supposed to be inside in your room.

"Some of my best friends are on my cheerleading squad, Hard work, dedication, and practice almost everyday bring us together." says Melissa Davis.

These group of freshmen boys are caught by the camera and suddenly stop their conversation.

These group of Junior girls sit together at lunch and talk about their day.

Although eyebrow piercing looks very painful, Sean McElny smiles and says, "It didn't really hurt that much."

Holey Expression

Fairfax High is a haven for the unique. Look around and everywhere someone has a rod or hoop stuck through flesh. Nothing is sacred, from nipples to bellies. So pierce away! On the other hand, piercing is not for everyone. Freshman Kyle Isert says body piercing is bad and comments, "It looks painful anducky."

Since Fairfax has been bitten by the body piercing bug, many students have gone out to get something pierced. Instead of spending the $50 to $100 dollars to get it done professionally, many students try to do it themselves at home.

Body piercing is definitely the trend of the 90's.

Showing off the new craze that swept the Senior Class is Brennan Fowler and his pierced nipples.

Many girls in the school got pierced belly buttons over the summer, either at the beach or the local piercing place.

Giving Katie Johnson

Ga hint on her Latin homework, Sallie Keena helps her with the correct translation.

After arriving to class early, Chuckie Purcell decides to inspect his desk before class starts. No one likes to sit in a desk full of trash.

Friends, Kerry, McKenny, Buddy Trivino, and Amanda Critzer check their schedules on the first day of school. Everyone wants to have at least one class with their best friends.

Recovering from the Stress of School

All students have an objective. Whether it's an A in that frustrating math class, or completing that major science project, we all focus on our goals. These goals are not easily achieved. It takes hours of patience, studying, and more often than not spontaneous outbursts of "This is stupid!" and "I hate this!" But when it's all said and done the stress passes and transforms into a feeling beyond explanation. When it finally sinks in and a sense of relief sets in, you have move on to the next chapter, and the process starts all over. Of course the only feeling better than understanding is when all those hours of studying payoff and you get an A on the test. Then you have the right to brag to your friends, who instead of studying watched reruns of Full House.

It all pays off though. Come time to sending in your college applications, you can look back and see somethings to be proud of. And once you have the grades in control, everything else falls into place. Parents give you extra privileges- most people get money for grades, others an extended curfew. Whatever it is, your parents start to become a little more tolerant of your shenanigans.

One great thing about this year is that there were a lot of new classes offered to students. Some of the new classes included AP Psychology, Geosystems, and Human Anatomy. With these new classes, students were able to broaden their horizons. AP Psychology inspired deep thinking and taking a look on how the mind functions. Geosystems encouraged hands on use of computers involving the Internet. Learning the names of different organs and what they do was the focus of the Human Anatomy class.

It was a great academic year with more people than ever making honor roll. It was fantastic year full of promise for future years to come.

Anatomy labs allow students Brian Stora and Edna Ponce-Martinez to work on both teamwork and their anatomy skills at the same time.

Computer labs are an important part of all science classes, but even more so in Geosystems. Here, Khaliah Whittington takes notes on computer-generated results in fifth period Geosystems class.

While Waseem Garbia works on the hands-on part of the lab, Janine Klien takes down the results to turn in to the teacher.

Always the enthusiastic student, Kerrianne Cullen works on her lab in Anatomy class. Kerrianne says her favorite thing about Anatomy is that she has never done this before; it's all new.

Theater Tech students Brad Jutras and Ross Miner are hard at work on the set for Noises Off. The set was a major accomplishment for the class because the set had to be built on rollers to be rotated between acts.

Doors of Opportunity

Many new doors of opportunities have been opened this year at Fairfax High School. Four new class choices are being offered to the students. Human Anatomy/Physiology, Advanced Placement Psychology, Theater Tech, and Geosystems are all now available as options for students who wish to further their studies within those fields of study. Human Anatomy/Physiology is a class for upperclassmen that teaches not only where everything in the body is, but also what it does. AP Psychology is an accelerated psychology class which is very in-depth and examines the way the human mind works. To teach the behind-the-scenes aspect of the acting world, Theater Tech is offered by the theater department. Geosystems is a lab-based earth science class where students can use the internet to further discover their world and its natural systems.

Hard at work passing out pamphlets, Senior Jessica Salvetti passes out information about how society influences adolescent behavior. Jessica is Mr. Henry's student assistant in his third period AP Psychology class.

Demonstrating his point, Mr. Henry has students volunteer to toss a basketball into a recycling bin. He is showing how people make decisions about risktaking by seeing from how far they choose to throw the ball.

Some people decide to show their class spirit in their artwork. A good example is Sarath Sath. He shows his senior spirit in this picture.

This graffiti piece was thought of and drawn out by junior Jebb Finerty. To all of the amateur artists, "Don't sweat the technique," Jebb says.

This graphic piece was drawn by Dan Zhang.

In the likeness of Edward Munch, Jeanne Shewmaker illustrates her talents.

Illustrating the idea of fantasies and dreams, Michelle Miller draws unicorns and ribbons.

The Beauty of Art

The word is outlets. They are ways for people to express themselves through art. Outlets are also the releases for some people. They are the releases from all the stress, anger, happiness, and sorrow of life. Lost in their works, artists convey all of their emotions to the onlooker.

Fairfax is full of its own Dalis, Monets, and Rembrandts. Take a look at their work on display through the school. Masterpieces can be seen from the main office to the commons. They are everywhere, from Natasha Pollard's photography, to Molly Jones' dancing and to Sean McElleny's drastic drawings. Art covers our school from end to end.

Artists work in unexpected places. Horticulture student Kevin Grant says, "Landscaping is art with living things. If it is done well, the school looks good. If not, then it looks bad, and bad work should never be on display." Nicole Davis says, "I believe art is a way of expressing your true emotions. Making a yearbook is an art. You can express the emotions of an entire school from a whole year rather than from just a moment."

In this picture, Joel Colaianni illustrates modern teenage styles. Joel uses his artwork for many school activities such as submissions for the senior T-shirt and decorating many of the senior crowns.

An artist has many decisions to make while working. What to draw? What colors to use? Betsy Logan says she had "too many choices, not enough time," when she drew this piece called "Lunch."

Not yet fully awake, senior Brian Janiec and junior Holly Foth wait for their first period marketing class to begin. They really enjoy everything about the class-except that it starts at 7:20!

Montgomery Ward's Kids Department is where Stacey Davidson works. She runs the register and says "It is very busy and the hours can be rough, but it prepares me for real life."

Two good friends, Cindy Monroe and Carrie Herrin, sit together in Marketing class.

Early morning Marketing is one of Tony Lee's favorite classes. Here, he is trying to get some Halloween candy from Tanya Tyrell, another Marketing student.

Advanced Marketing student, Richard Cash, works in retail and as a senior worker at Montgomery Ward, he thinks he might have found a possible calling in life.

After ahead

Preparation for life, a career, additional responsibility: co-op is all of these and more. Since 1947, co-op classes have been offered in the state of Virginia. This year, over fifty five students are taking co-op through the classes of Marketing and Business. The majority of the students are juniors and seniors with a high rate of return to the program during senior enrollment and about sixty to seventy percent of them continuing on to college.

Mr. Hiatt, a Marketing teacher, says "Over eighty percent of the jobs in the United States are in marketing, and co-oping brings students that extra step in preparing for the real world." Students are required to take a Business or Marketing class and complete either 540 hours a year for the three credit program or 270 hours for the two credit program. The time is designed to help students complete their homework before setting off to work or allow them to get home earlier to do their homework so grades in other classes do not slip. Even so, many of the students in the program are using their time to extend their working hours to save up for college, or, to pay for the end-all, be-all of high school life: a car.

Filling out some forms for Mr. Hiatt are senior Kelli Faulkner and freshman Casey Warner.

No novice on the job here! Senior Teddy Rose goes that extra mile to make a sale and help a customer find needed tires for a flat. He puts his best foot forward to leave his customers satisfied.

Where Next?

Senior year is almost over and SAT's are done, so what's next? For some students graduation means the end of lugging heavy books around and getting up at the crack of dawn. For other students this is just the beginning of lugging even heavier books and forgoing sleep to get last minute papers in. After a short summer vacation these students will be heading to college for another important step in their education. Looking at all the schools that you could apply to can be overwhelming. You need to take into consideration the things that you are good at. Some of our students already know where they want to go to continue their education, but for others the search is just beginning.

Before deciding which college to attend, you need to narrow down your choices. Some things to consider are the location, the teacher to student ratio, or, if you're playing a sport, what NCAA division each college plays in.

Senior Megan Dempsey is not only going to further her basketball career at The United States Military Academy, but also her education. "It will teach me leadership and provide a job when I graduate," she said.

Filling out applications is another big part of getting ready for college. "I hate it!", said senior Marzena Fercz. "It's so time consuming." Every application seems to be asking for the same thing, and this gets frustrating. Everyone hates the college essay but it is the most important part of the application because it shows off the applicant's personality in a way that transcripts can't.

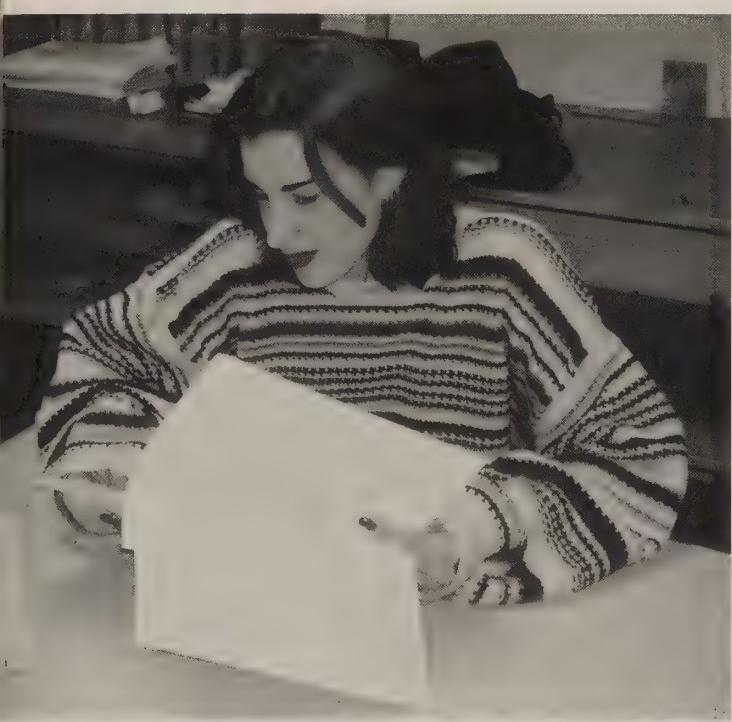

Seniors- get your pens ready and start filling out those applications!

Seniors April Olsick and Paige Butler visited Elon College in North Carolina. "The campus was beautiful. I want to go there with my best friend Paige," commented April.

Over the summer, seniors Eric Buchanan and Paul Ransom went to Bridgewater College not only for yearbook camp, but also to check-out the campus. They really liked the school.

A common site seen often at the beginning of the school year is that of students filling out college applications. Senior Amanda Kowalski struggles to answer the many questions asked on her applications.

Seniors Marzena Fercz, Brandy Pierce, and Kristen McCauley take time out of their busy schedules to visit the Career Center to gather information about different colleges.

Many students spent their summer vacations visiting college campuses. Lynchburg College was among the many schools visited by senior Nicole Davis.

In the beginning of the year, many seniors, such as Giovanna Garcia, Jaron Ulrich and Alice-Ann Foulks, took time during lunch to look at college information.

Geoffe Goode, Barbara Isanski, Leslie Hulick, Jada Beazer, Matt Huber, and Sean Hanley were each selected for individual achievements in and out of school. Not pictured are Natasha Pollard and Anthony Ling.

This year's Homecoming Queen, Nora Cho, showed excellent leadership as a Virginia Youth Service council member. She is also the county student representative and involved in clubs like Model U.N. and Keyettes.

Demonstrating his skills, Scott McDermott has the privilege of attending the Empire State National Tae Kwon Do Tournament. Besides being a Tae Kwon Do black belt, Scott is also a baseball pitcher and captain of the "It's Academic" team.

Just another example of Jaime Dyke's achievements is being a varsity cheerleader. As a Fairfaxian she is involved in many other activities including lacrosse. Jaime was selected for her College Board National Achievement Scholar election.

Breathtakingly beautiful, Jennifer Clore won recognition for being a soloist and a member of the National Jordanian Ballet Troupe. Having just moved from Amman, Jordan, she got involved in many activities like the Step Team, A Cappella, and Concert Band.

Fairfaxonians

This year has been an excellent one for recognizing those students who have achieved something worth commending. Fairfaxonians is a program designed to honor those who represent the good in our school and who serve as role models. Their achievements include a wide variety, from a Tae Kwon Do Tournament to receiving the highest score in the Boys' State Test in the NOVA Area. Barbara Isanski, recognized for her outstanding work as the editor of the Fairfax Yearbook for the past two years. All of these special students serve as an example for fellow classmates and their praiseworthy deeds represent the virtues of our school. It's often surprising that these students don't get nearly enough acknowledgment as those students who are disreputable. So, if you wonder why a group of students have the privilege of having their picture in the cafeteria, it's because they have accomplished something that is worth admiring. As students, we should be more aware of these achievers because we should look up to them and follow their example.

Proudly wearing his Varsity football jersey, Ted Royster was recognized for his College Board National Achievement Scholar election. He has managed to stay in both the National Honor Society and the Spanish Honor Society while participating in sports like Varsity track.

Competing for Gold!

The 1996 Summer Olympics in Atlanta were not the only Olympics held this year. While worn out athletes were returning home to their countries after a hot and humid two weeks in Atlanta, our very own FLEX students were starting to train for their chance to succeed in athletics through the Special Olympics. In addition to participating in these exciting events, FLEX students were also given the chance to gain practical skills while working in the community.

The students love competing in the Special Olympics. They do not have to wait four years to compete: the Special Olympics occur every year! Fairfax students play soccer in the fall and basketball in the winter. They spend many hours a week training for the games, which are held on Saturdays.

Through the FLEX program, students also get a wonderful opportunity to work in the real world. They work in the community in such places as TJ Maxx and Sundog Productions, where they make tie-dye T-shirts. Some students also help out in the school cafeteria, assisting the staff with making lunches.

Students in the FLEX program love getting experience working outside of school. They also love competing in the Olympics and going for the gold!

During a football game, Beverly Suffa-Wuya shakes her pom-pom after the Rebels make a touchdown.

Every Friday the gang goes on a community field trip. In this picture they attended Cox's farm. They enjoyed the trip thoroughly.

Coming down the firehouse pole, teacher Dave Jagels has lots of fun fooling around with his own fireman's uniform.

Fooling around in the firehouse, Tia Krzysko, Patrick Connolly, and Heather Savage pretend they are going to a real fire.

Having fun on the firetruck, Jill Arnott, Tia Krzysko, Chrissy Burton, Heather Savage, Mike Williams, and Ju-won Han sit and enjoy the scenery.

Excited about getting a pumkin, Ju-won Han shows the pumpkin to everyone then places it in her bag.

In the Mexican part of the Children's Museum, Jill Arnott hops on a motorcycle and holds on tight!

The quiet atmosphere of the school library provides a great study environment and allows junior Nora Sayasithsena to concentrate on gathering information.

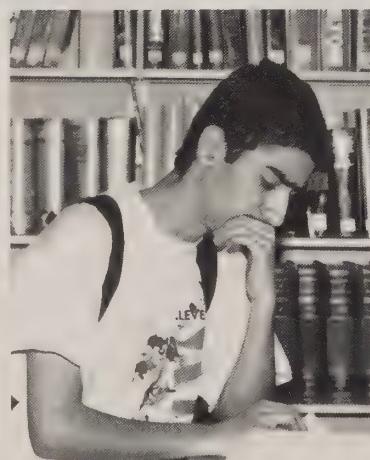

Draft number three and counting! As a freshman in Mrs. Gwen Smith's English class, Ryan O'Connor revises yet another draft in the paper process.

Focusing on the task at hand, Freshman Tricia Apostolakis demonstrates excellent typing skills when editing and retyping her draft.

What better place to begin a reference paper than in the library! Sophomore Vahid Radjou studies the material he needs to create a convincing report.

Does it really help to ask a friend for ideas? During lunch, Nick Nyland and Katie Gilbert list persuasive arguments to use in an upcoming thesis paper.

Typing, Revising, and Editing Oh My!

Creativity, late nights, cramped fingers, and writers' block are all a part of the paper process. Here at Fairfax, the process varies from teacher to teacher.

"Mrs. Bicknell's paper process is so arduous, it makes my head ache just thinking about it," Junior Nick Faber comments about his English teacher's stringent paper system. Five drafts are needed for each paper at the end of the quarter. After one turns in the first paper, it's not wise to hesitate turning another, because it might be a while before the first paper is returned to edit. There are usually three classes of students waiting to rewrite the drafts Bicknell has edited. If they're lucky, they might have a paper accepted and knock a few drafts out of their schedule.

Another way of assigning papers is Mrs. Marlys Renner's system. Students start with an assignment for a certain type of paper that is due, perhaps, by the end of the week. It would be a good idea to write this first draft; who knows when you'll be turning it for a grade. If it is turned in, editing and revising the paper can raise the grade. Papers for first and second quarter that receive an A or a B+ allow students to skip writing a paper third quarter. Good Luck!

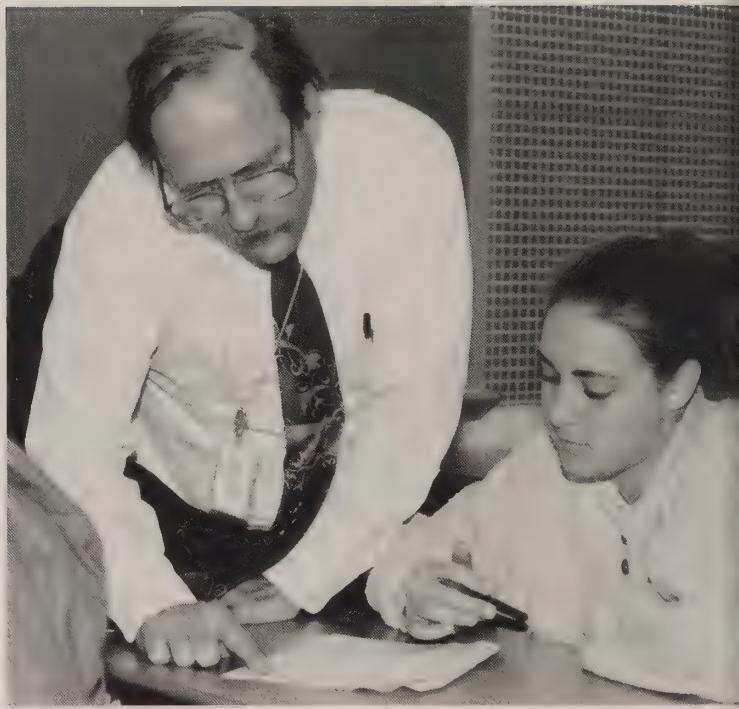

Will this paper ever end? Senior Kevin Gable contemplates what to add next to the plot of his short story. Don't you hate writers' block?

During a reading/writing workshop class period, freshmen Connie Maetzold, Lori Schweiring, and Katie Delehanty make progress on their character sketches.

By giving her students a day to relax and watch a video, Mrs. Shultz gets the students to see the fun side of biology. Aside from the textbook, biology was also taught through videos, labs, and models.

Needing assistance, Kathleen Huff asks Mr. Dempewolfe for help. Mr. Dempewolfe preferred to go beyond the book. He taught students things that were important to know, but were not incorporated in the curriculum.

Making things interesting for his art students, Mr. French uses drama students as subjects for his next assignment. The drama department had a lot of students dress up for Halloween and Mr. French took advantage of the opportunity.

By working example problems and explaining each step, Ms. Hawthorne makes sure everyone in the class understands. She then answers any questions the students might have.

Giving students a chance to get outside and get rid of all their energy, gym was a favorite among students. Ms. Aderton, having learned the philosophy well, lets the students have a good time without putting strict rules into play.

Teaching Techniques

"I try to keep the students is active as possible and use cooperative learning. I like to try to combine all the learning processes to help each student learn with their particular learning style."

-Mr. Dempewolf

"I like to tell my kids that if you can't think yourself into the right way of acting, act yourself into the right way of thinking."

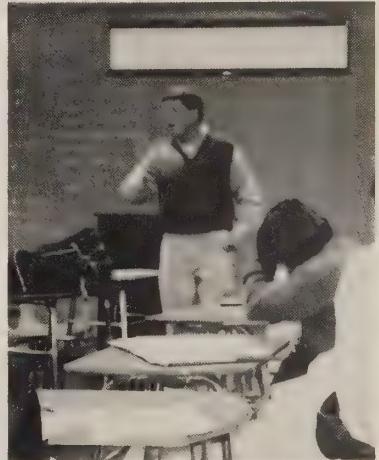

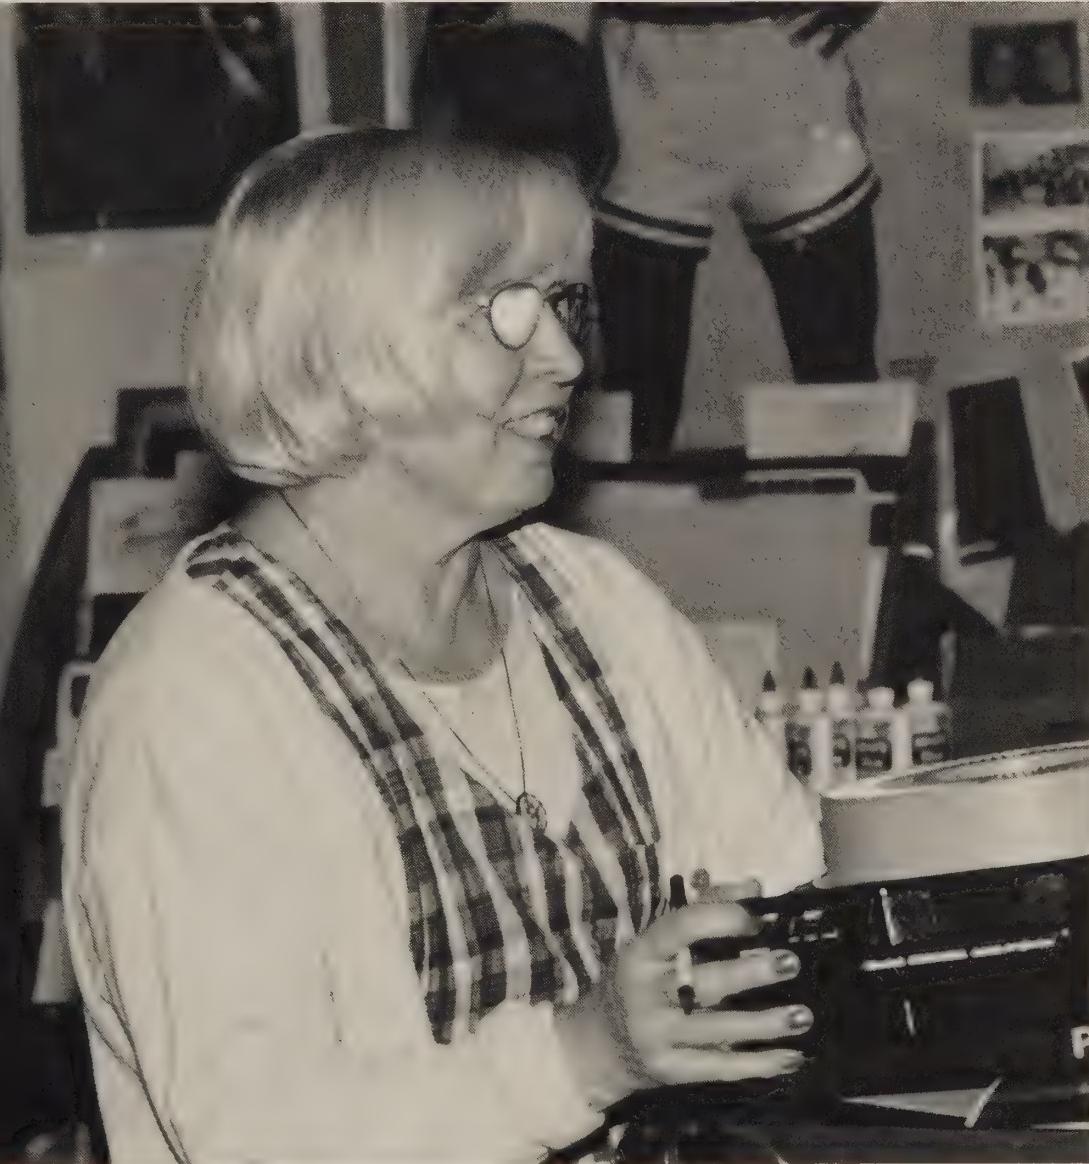

- Mrs. H Smith

"I try to present topics in a way that they can relate to, and that they see is relevant to them. It gives them a better understanding of themselves and the world."

-Mr. Henry

"I have great classes and most students are motivated. To keep them interested, I try to have an enthusiastic attitude toward the subject and to the students. We laugh, tell occasional stories, and have fun. I sing, and even "dance" when necessary. I definitely am always moving."

- Mrs. Hartley

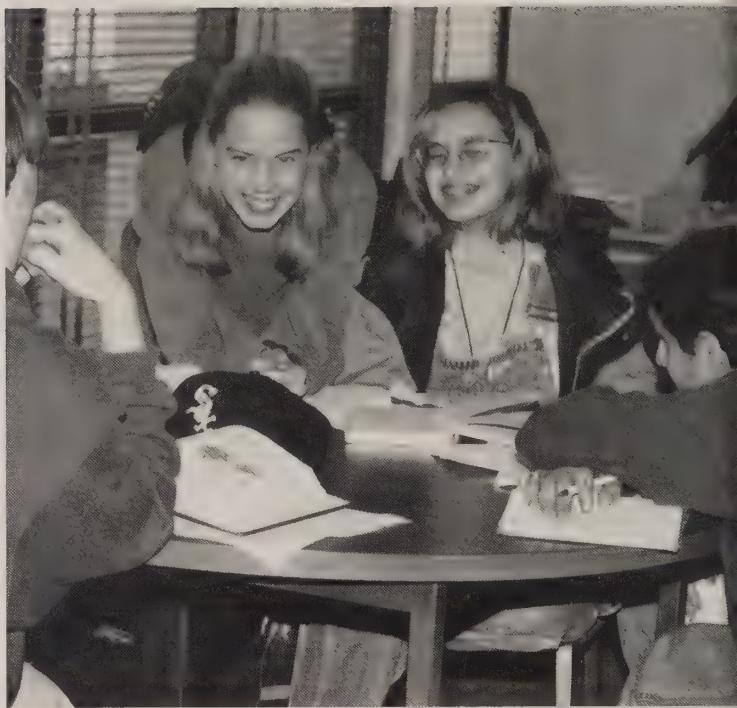

To get more students involved in class discussions, Mr. Henry used many games and activities in his psychology classes. Here students were picked to try and make a basket, getting to choose from three different lines to shoot from. The rest of the class was to predict which line the person would choose to shoot from to demonstrate thought process.

Showing slides of famous photographs and photographers, Mrs. Arnold explains what each photograph took and what makes it unique.

Amidst the chatter of his class mates, Cristhian Dorado looks to Bilen Muleta for help on his work.

A group of students in the library continue working while Candi Smith and Sam Herrin goof off.

Students take advantage of the break provided by the fire drill and inform their friends of the day's events.

Glad to get out of class, relieved students slowly exit the building during one of the school's fire drills.

The class must wait for Mrs. Siggers to finish teaching her lesson as she is momentarily distracted by an office aide.

Goofing Around

That kid tapping his pencil, those guys talking across the room, that fly buzzing around your head... It seems as if there is always something interfering with the completion of your work.

So what bothers students around Fairfax the most? Opinions were divided on the issue of what was the most bothersome. Some said teachers, others said outside forces, such as weather or a fire drill. But for the most part students felt distracted by their peers. Freshman Juli Rigney says that "loud talkative people" distract her, but sophomore Scott Wright says that the mere presence of "the ladies" is enough to distract him.

Although most were distracted by other students, there were still some who said weather distracted class. "I hate it when people run to the window like they've never seen snow," said senior Tasha Pollard.

So whether it's your peers, a fire drill, office aides or the snow, class distractions are the most often encountered problem at Fairfax, and another thing students have become used to.

Now feeling refreshed, Autumn Stark re-enters the school after a fire drill and shows her new found energy and excitement as she discusses her weekend plans with her friend.

Distracted by the talking of her peers around her, senior Kara Leonard tries to focus on completing her assignment under pressure.

Goofing Off

It's not surprising to see a big grin on a student's face when they walk into class, only to find that they have a substitute for the day. A substitute usually means an easy day, one where all you have to do is busy work. Teachers normally leave worksheets or other activities to keep students busy. Something that a lot of students look forward to is a day when they're supposed to have a test but the teacher is gone, so it's postponed. Unfortunately, some students end up trying to take advantage of the substitute, who has no idea what usually goes on in that class. Students might try and convince the substitute that they don't have to do the work, it was a mistake, or that their teacher usually lets them leave class five minutes early. We have to remember that substitutes are usually unsure and nervous about being in a new class. It's up to the students to help out and answer any questions the substitute has. One area that substitutes usually need help in is attendance. First, normally they mispronounce some names, which might create confusion and second people take this opportunity to sit with their friends, making seating charts worthless. So, although a substitute means goofing off, remember to treat them with respect.

Sitting in a corner by himself, this sub guesses that if a student needs any help they will come up to him and ask.

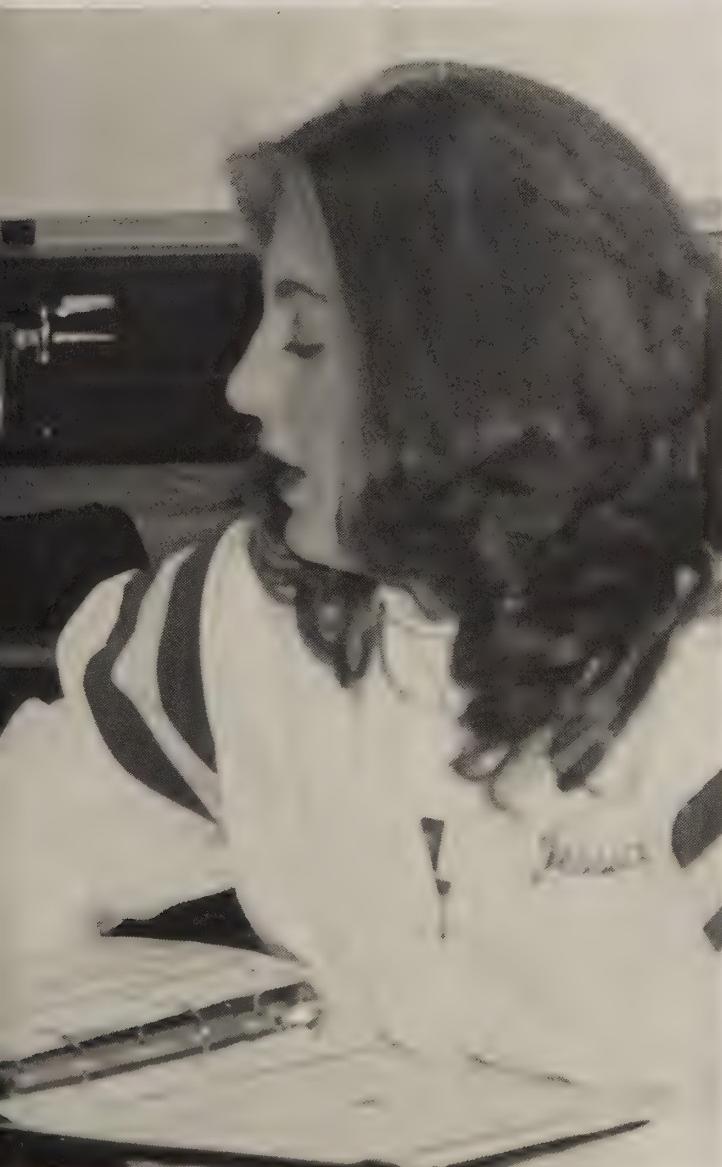

Having a sub means lots of worksheets. Brian Lee, Kristy Roderick, and Jessica Salvetti work together in a group because the substitutes can rarely help especially when it comes to a physics worksheet.

Using Khadyjah Yusef's government book to study, Roy gets help from the substitute teacher.

When you see worksheets or a video machine usually indicates that you have a sub. Shown here are students working on a review sheet for their upcoming test.

Taking attendance, Mrs. Telotte checks to see who is here and who is not.

Speaking at the Soul Food Dinner, Ms. Whitfield is a part-time teacher, awareness aide, and sometimes called upon to cover teacher's classes.

We all remember those first few days of school. The weather was warm and backpacks were very light.

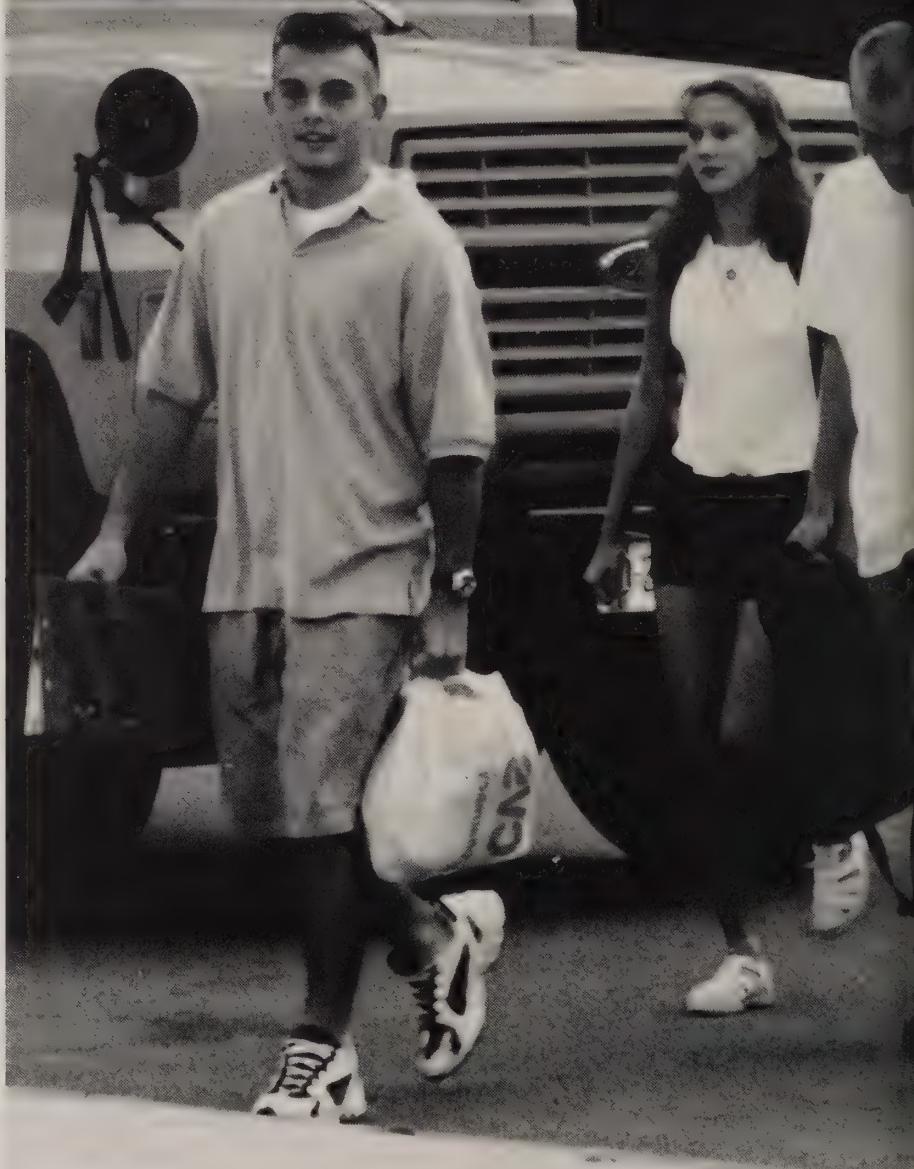

Outside the Senior Hall-way, many friends gathered for lunch. This long-time group of friends quickly got together for an opportune shot between bites.

Lunch has always been a time to let loose and goof off with your friends. Dan Trencher does this to perfection.

Showing their school spirit at a varsity football game, Fairfax Pep Band members Chris Burke, Tony Calabria, and Dan Miller cheer with homemade instruments. The band plays a big role during football games by getting the fans' spirits roaring.

Focus On The Times

When we look back on this year, what will we think about? What is it that will stand out and make the school year of 1997 unique? No single answer can be given. We all have that certain something that will last us a life time. What was it for you?

For the Freshmen Class of 2000, perhaps the whole year in general will stand out. No one can forget how incredible their first year of high school was for them. Freshmen went from being the top dogs in their middle school--where they knew everyone and everyone knew them-- to being the lowest of the low, stuck in a school ten times bigger than the one from which they came and surrounded by thousands of bigger, badder, and all-around better guys than them (some of whom having more facial hair than someone's dad). The only thing that really keeps them going is the hope that they can fill the older kids' places in the next few years. But there is a bright side. There's new people to meet and friends to make, guys to date and girls to hunt. High school's not that bad, is it?

For sophomores, the year of 1997 marked one of the most important events of their lives. After long hours in the classroom and months behind the wheel, many of them finally get their licenses to drive. No longer bumming rides from friends or having their parents drop them off a block away from the party, they now control their own fate. But with a license comes new responsibilities. Whether it's having to pick up your little sister from ballet or getting a job to pay for gas, driving can have its downsides. But most would agree that it's worth it.

Junior year for many is crunch time. This is the year when classes get tough and grades matter. As a junior, you can feel the eyes of those big colleges over your shoulder watching your every move. Then come the tests. Not only do teachers pile on the exams, but the dreaded SAT's lurk like a dark cloud over your head. A good score could mean an easy senior year, but a bad score could mean one of the worst school year's of your life. No pressure there, right? But junior year is also the year when you figure out who your really good friends are that will last you throughout the next year of high school and beyond.

Last, but definitely not least, comes the senior class of 1997. This is truly the year to remember. It all started with the painting of the stadium and ended with the walk down the aisle. The next four years of a senior's life have (hopefully) been planned, and life is truly just beginning. But can seniors truly say that? After all the time they've spent walking those pale drab halls, listening to that meaningless chatter filling your ears, and all those good times that will last them a lifetime, no one can deny that high school was one of the best parts of your life and should always have a special place in all of us.

Faculty

Pet Peeves

We all have pet peeves and the faculty is no different. What really gets under their skin?

"Students who are unable to follow the directions! (as in if all else fails...)," said Mrs. Renner in the English department. Also, "the volume of the announcements."

Mrs. Connerton in the Social Studies Department emphatically states that, "Hats, students who ask if we are doing anything today, clock watchers, and narrow-minded intolerant people," annoy her.

Science Department's Mr. Leinwohl's pet peeves include, "cheating or copying homework, cramming before a test," and, "not being prepared!"

Mrs. Lewis, the Drivers Education teacher, shows a film strip to one of her classes. One of her pet peeves is when students lay their heads on the desks.

While coaching a football game, Mr. Gallagher concentrates intensely on the decision of the next play.

Technology

One of the principle leaders of technology at Fairfax is Nancy Russ. She ran the technology fair in the library in order to "increase teacher awareness of the uses of technology within a classroom setting." She has high hopes for the use of computers in class. She hopes to eventually "see a computer hooked up to the Internet in every classroom."

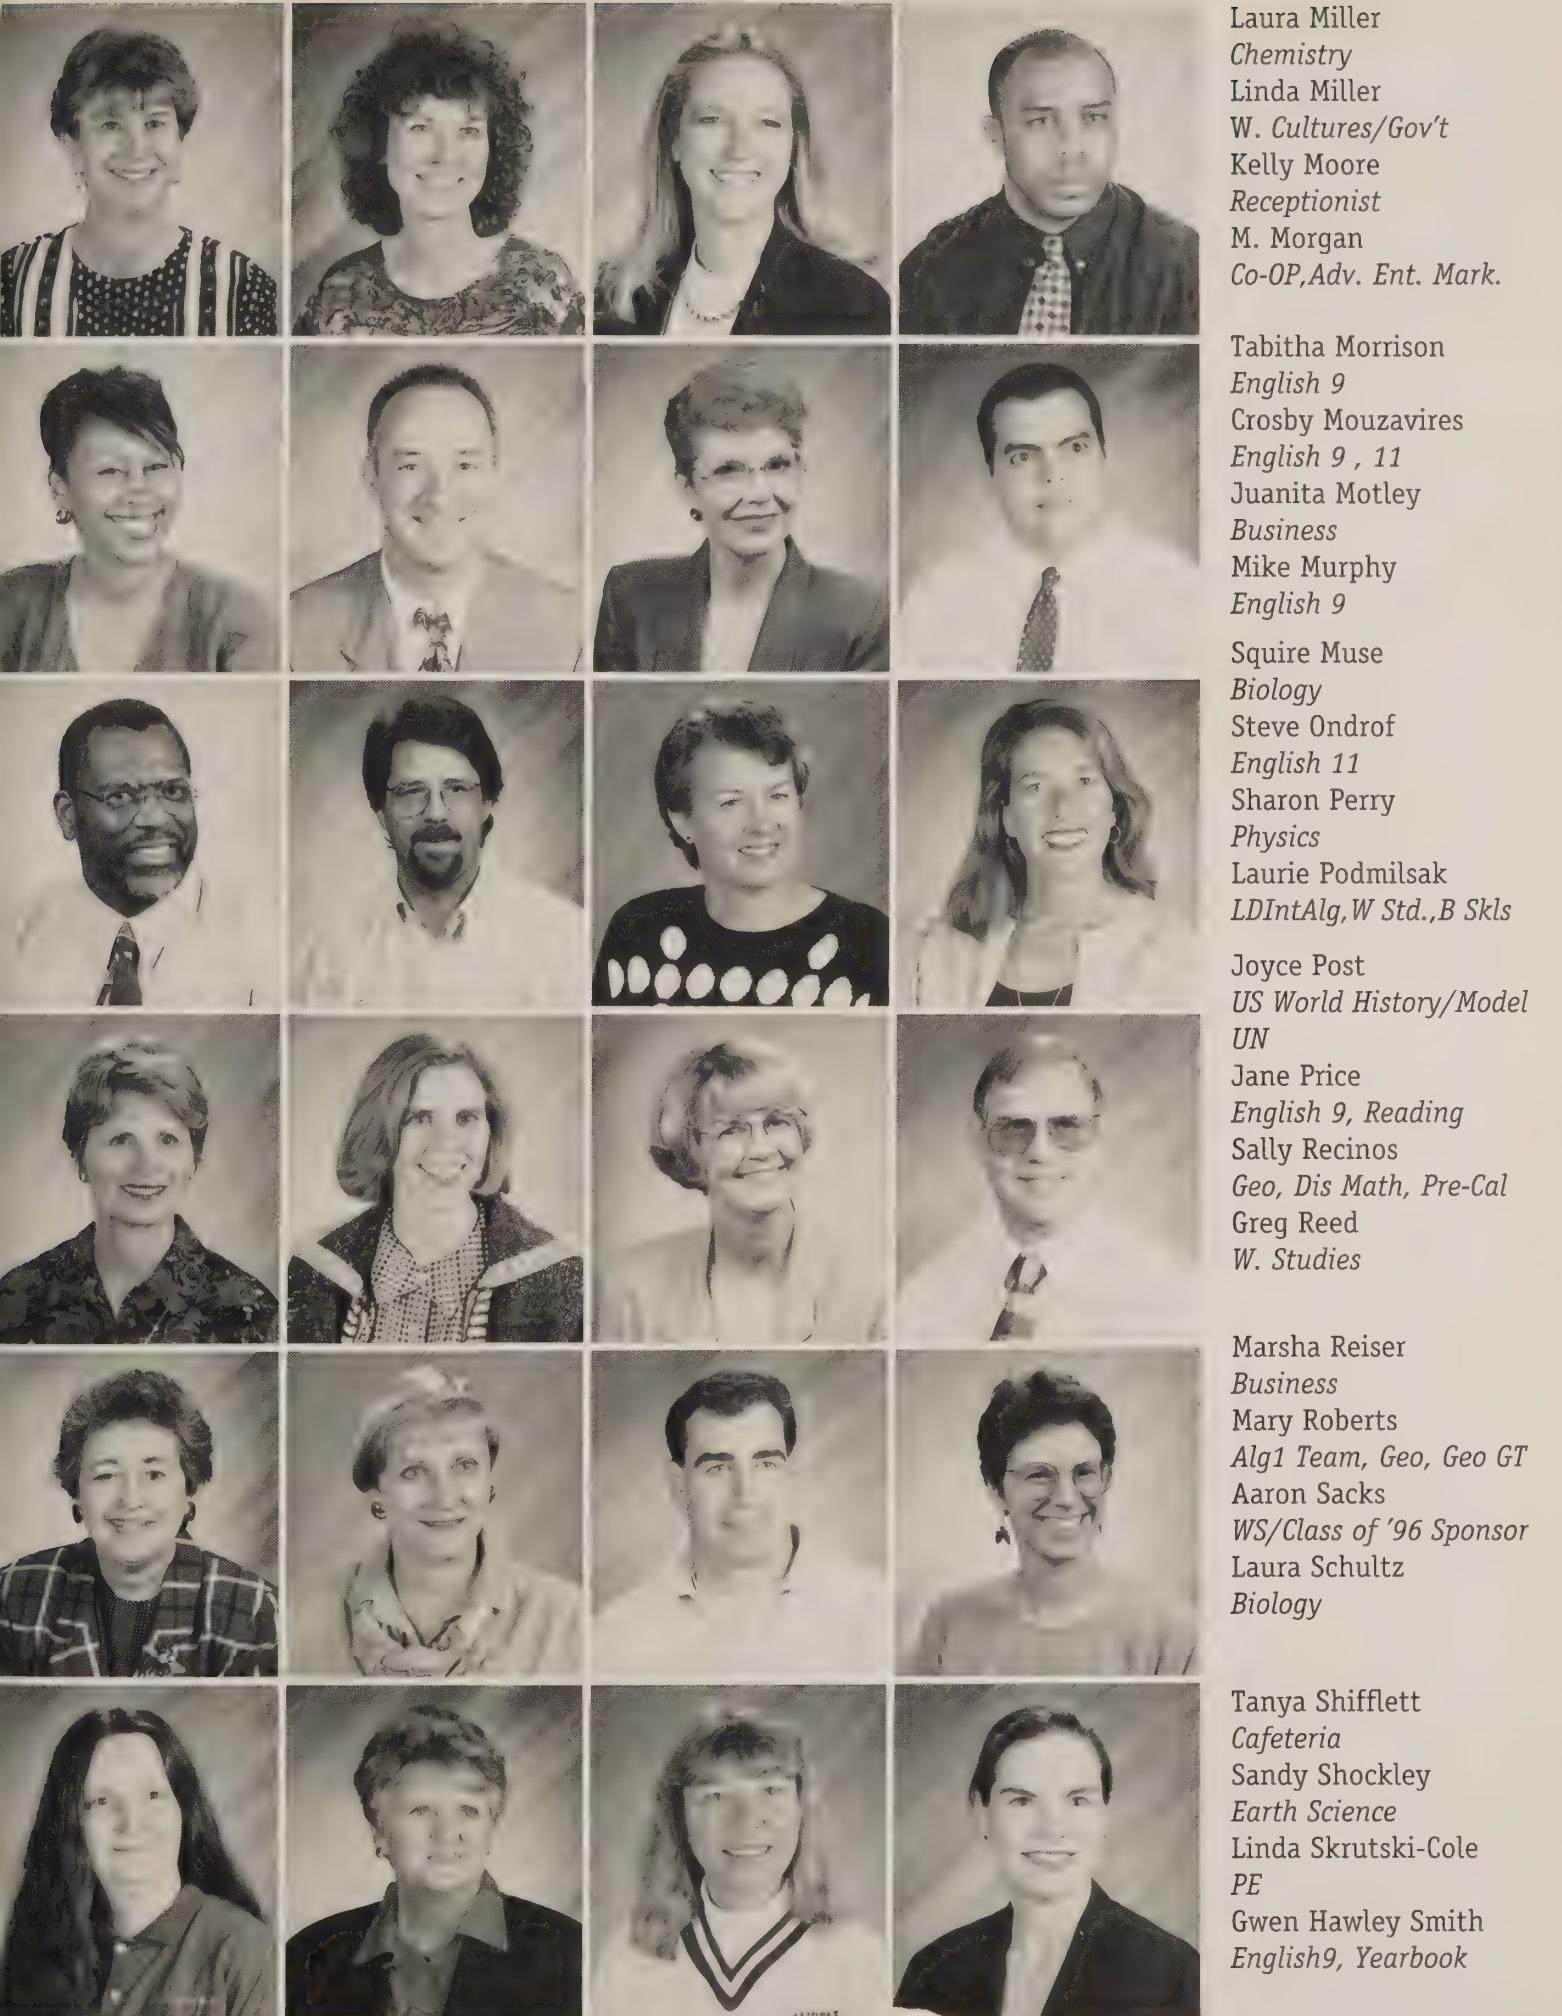

This appreciation of technology's potential is not limited to Mrs. Russ alone; many of the other teachers appreciate it too.

From a literary point of view, Marlys Renner in the English Department comments on technology, saying she "loves the grade machine and the well run computer lab." She sends "kudos to Mrs. Russ!"

Inputting class test results into the computer, Ms. Burke of the Social Studies Department, takes advantage of the upgraded technology system at our school.

A s senior Hannah Keith looks over the results of her scantron test, Mrs. Connerton continues to pass out the rest of the test results to the class.

Embarrassing Moments

Mrs. Erickson tells about one of her embarrassing moments. "One day when I was team-teaching with Mrs. Roberts, I walked up to the overhead screen to point out something. Before I knew it, I was totally enveloped in the screen on the floor with half the class gasping and the other half laughing hysterically. Now you see Mrs. E, now you don't!"

For Mr. Leinwohl, "crumpling up a student's notes thinking he was passing a note to a friend," is embarrassing for a teacher.

Teaching in front of a room full of teenagers is not as simple as it looks. Teachers are always being judged on their actions and appearance. Students never seem to forget those embarrassing moments that teachers have.

The End is in Sight!!

Seniors '97

The Senior Hall was the place for seniors on the move or just hanging out. Seniors spent a lot of time there with their friends before and after school. The Hall was also a haven during school for seniors who just wanted a break from college stress or senior slump.

The Class of 1998 One More Year to Go

Junior year is rumored to be the hardest, longest, and most tiring year but the Class of '98 didn't let that stop them from having a great time. From painting over the '97 in the stadium and winning the Powder Puff game, to making a float with one flower on it, the Class of '98 made sure their junior year was remembered for more than just studying!

Junior cheerleaders lead their class with their spirit and enthusiasm. For many of them this was an exciting year because it was their first year on Varsity.

One of the highlights of the juniors' year was the 20-8 victory in Powder Puff Game against the seniors. Nick Grim, Steve Horvath, and Dylan Taylor all enjoyed playing cheerleaders during the role-switching day.

*S*tanding on top of the junior float, Gideon Mackay holds up a sign with the Class of 1998's "theme." The juniors' float was made in one day and had a total of one flower on it.

Second Row: Gideon MacKay, Carole Nordin, Liz Newman, Emmy Smith, Haylee Hilton, Jill Parks

"I like being a part of our class and help plan activities, but it would be more fun if more people got involved."

-Elizabeth Newman

"I loved helping plan prom, it was great to watch everyone's work pay off in the end."

-Emmy Smith

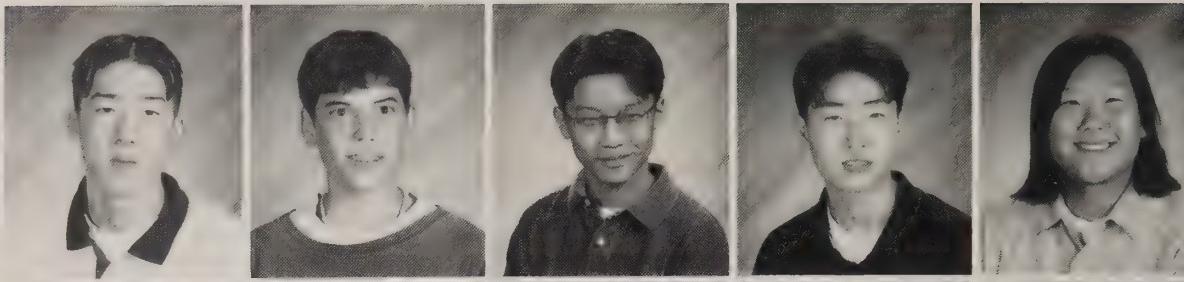

"It is always great to be able to represent the class of '98 by being an officer, but planning prom made this year special."

-Haylee Hilton

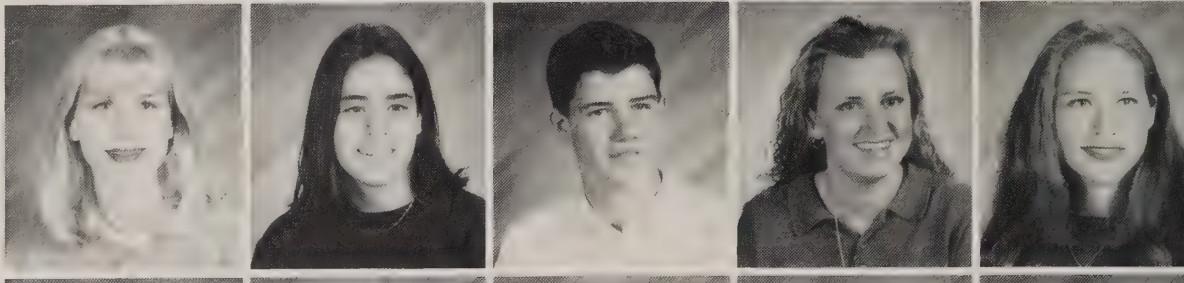

"It was pretty hard being a officier this year because we had alot to do, but no one helped us."

Junior Hallway

Why do you like having a locker in the Junior Hallway?

"My favorite part of the junior hallway is that it's not as crowded as the locker bay. I can get to my locker this year.
-Shannon Butler

"I liked being in the hallway, but it's really far away from my classes. I could only go twice a day.
-Lisa Dowell

It was great having my locker in the hallway 'cause i could see all my friends in the morning and afternoon.

Varsity Sports

What was the best part about moving up to varsity?

"It gives you the opportunity to make lifetime friends, and share some great experiences. Having a winning season and hopefully getting a district patch is a great feeling."

-Alison Cobb

"Competition is the best part of cheering on the Varsity. I've learned the meaning of teamwork and reaching higher goals."

-Melissa Davis

"The best part about field hockey was being with my friends and winning the district."

-Melissa Lewis

"The best part about Swim and Dive was taking the team picture in our Speedos, we all looked so sexy."

-Ryan Champney

The Class of 1999 Movin' on Up

The class of 1999's sophomore year was one of the easiest and the best years of their four years at Fairfax High School. Some sophomores turned Sweet 16 during their sophomore school year, while other sophomores got their Learner's Permit. One other thing that makes the sophomore year really special is their last year as an underclassmen. Next year they will be Juniors.

This year the sophomores got some respect from the seniors, last year the seniors went through a phase of putting freshmen in the trash can.

During the sophomore school year the Army conducted a three hour test, the Armed Services Vocational Aptitude Battery, that helped sophomores narrow down possible career choices.

For some people their sophomore year was really easy, for others their year was really hard. In the words of many philosophers the sophomore class is the best.

These sophomore friends have a fun time walking to their next class.

Tearing up the game

The JV boys basketball team was led by sophomores like Scott Landon.

Concentration is the key in wrestling, as James Contreras shows.

A leading hurdler on the indoor track team, Chanel Miller perfects her form before a race at TJ Center.

Varsity field hockey was glad to have Annie Hall this. She carefully prepares for big game.

Rythem Is A Dancer

What was the most memorable part of this year as an officer?

Really getting to work with our class was great. We got a lot of things done and had a lot of fun."

- Ashley Dyke

The rose sale was a lot of fun."

- Kristen Mudrezow

I like being an officer, it makes you feel like you're a part of the decision making at school."

- Lesley White

What was the least memorable part as an officer this year?

The least memorable part as an officer would be working really hard at something and it doesn't work out. Also not getting the support that you need to carry on."

- Jada Beazer

the one and only 2000

Welcome 2000! How does it feel to know you're going to be the first class of the century?

"It's great being the first class to graduate in the new millenium. There will never be another class like us! We're number one!"

-Kendra Dean, President for 1996-1997

*A*s they made their way slowly through the parade, the freshmen class smiled and waved excitedly at the crowd.

*G*ood friends Rachel Aksman, Catherine Ladino, and Amber Conisento take time out of their meeting to smile for the camera.

The class of 2000 showed their pride after winning the float contest. This was the second year in which the freshmen took first.

Freshmen Leaders

The class of 2000 has had a great year, partly due to their class officers. These leaders have done their best to create ideas to make the freshman class as productive as possible. Officers must possess responsibility, creativity, and good leadership, and these students have shown that they have what it takes to head their class.

Freshman officer Suzaane Haake is obviously very proud of the class of 2000 for winning the float contest. Beating the upperclassmen was a big accomplishment for the freshmen.

A Whole New World

These two new freshman come off the bus and take a good long look at their new surroundings and new people they will be with for the next four years.

Happy about how his first day turned out, Colin Greata shows his opinion of Fairfax with a smile on his face.

Ariving to class on time can be a struggle if your locker is in the locker bay, as Trang Le and Carissa Mirasol have just figured out.

The first day of school was very exciting and scary for some of the new freshmen. One big problem was that kids were getting lost, even after orientation. Whatever problems there were, most students were excited to see friends they hadn't seen all summer, but some were wondering with anticipation what the new year would bring.

One To Lunch

Even though a freshman's move from lunch in junior high to lunch in high school can be very insignificant, it is actually a big change for the new students. The lunches this year provided the class of 2000 a chance to eat with older friends, leave the cafeteria, and as Juli Rigney said, "There's a much wider variety of food here." Even though they bring their lunch here are still more benefits.

Many students use their lunch break as a chance to talk to their friends. Meghan Fenton and Jennifer Litsas chat over their food about their day.

Some freshmen saw lunch as a great way to catch up on their rest during the day. Cady Snyder uses her table as a headrest while her friends eat around her.

These freshmen girls like to joke around and talk with their good friends throughout the whole lunch period.

Focusing on Winning

Determination, motivation, pride, adrenaline and tradition are all key words synonymous with the Fairfax High School athletic program.

Sports have so much to do with being focused. No matter what your size, speed, or agility, it all comes down to being focused on your goal. Here at Fairfax our goal is domination. It's a way of life, it's recognizing any challenge and any obstacle that is keeping you from peak performance and crushing whatever is in front of you.

Sports is about sudden change. Whether it's our number one ranked tennis player down a set or our baseball team down one run heading into the 9th, the more successful athletes reach down to that little extra something that propels them to victory.

History is also a key part of our teams' psyche. It motivates a freshman to step up and play Varsity and a senior to give it all he's got in his final season. Fairfax has a long tradition of winning and this past year has been no exception, with many new faces keeping our proud tradition alive.

Through sports, it is one of the only times you can line up with another team that may be better than you and you can say on this particular day "we knew what we had to do and we took it to you."

There is only one feeling better than walking onto that sacred ground called the promised land and looking over to the other side (me being mentally convinced that you are going to dominate whatever your opponent throws at you). They might be just as good and just as ready, but the confidence we have in ourselves and our second-to-none coaching staff gives us the edge. The only thing better than that feeling is doing it. And doing it is something we at Fairfax have grown accustomed to.

Playing for Pride

"This season was pretty hard on all the players, especially for the seniors. They expected and were expected to produce a winning season. We were a young inexperienced team but we learned a lot not just about football but about what it was like to be a real team no matter what. Come out and see us

Freshman running back Brandon Royster moved to Fairfax this past summer and made a huge impact in the Liberty District. He rushed for over a thousand yards and was second team all District.

Senior Paul Ransom and junior Chris Papachristos joke around on the sidelines while the offense was on the field.

next year because we're gonna be TIGHT!!!! The Defensive Backs were the PHATEST!"

-Mike Daniels

"This year was tough because we had some real close games. We played hard and the younger guys will learn a lot from this season.

This was my first season and it was fun."

-Dave Stebbins

"This was my senior year and the best thing about it was how we came together and put forth our best effort."

- Kevin Obando

"This season was definitely toughest I had to endure, but was worth it. There is nothing playing football it was my decision I ever made. I'm glad could help and hope I made an impact. Finally, keep it raw defensive backs!"

-Paul Ransom

Coach Spelman explains to the defense what the McLean offense is running at them and how to stop it. Easier said than done.

m leader by example, Andy Nix worked hard as ever this summer for just this type of opportunity, a go-ahead touchdown during a close homecoming game against Broad Run.

On a pivotal fourth down against Broad Run, Coach Verbanic elected to go with a clutch fake punt. It was successful and set up the winning touchdown.

Junior linebackers Ricky Styker and George Grczmiel brought down the very talented running back from McLean as Fairfax's defensive backs fought to help fill the holes.

Rushing Rebels

What was the highlight of the football season?

"The highlight was our winning record 5-2, and knowing that we never lost at home."

-Sam Ghannam

"Our highlight of the season was the first game. We all came together as a team for the first time and that's how we finished the season."

-Mike Tatum

How did the team feel about not keeping the tradition, of going undefeated?

"First of all I feel that all of the freshmen players gave it 100% all year, and because we went up against some tough teams we just didn't come out on top every time. Also we were not the biggest team but in the end we had a winning record which was very good for us."

-Mike Cullen

Conferring with each other, Coach Sutterfield and Coach Humphries contemplate what to call for the next play.

Running into the endzone, Terrance Hicks hopes to score a touchdown for the freshman team.

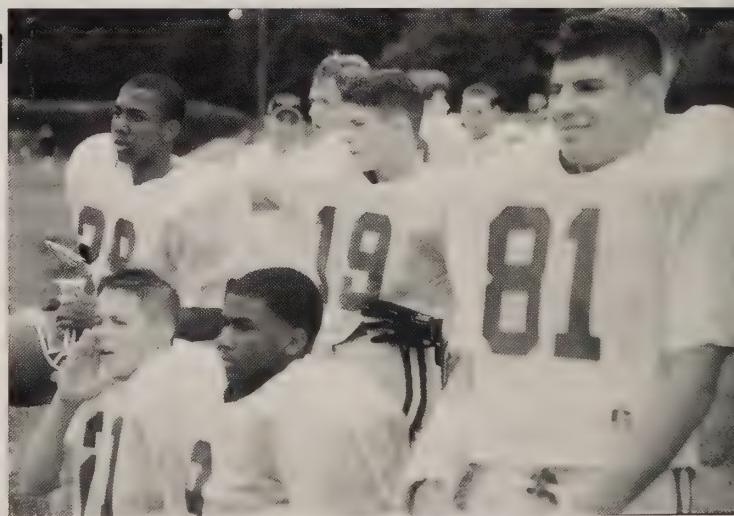

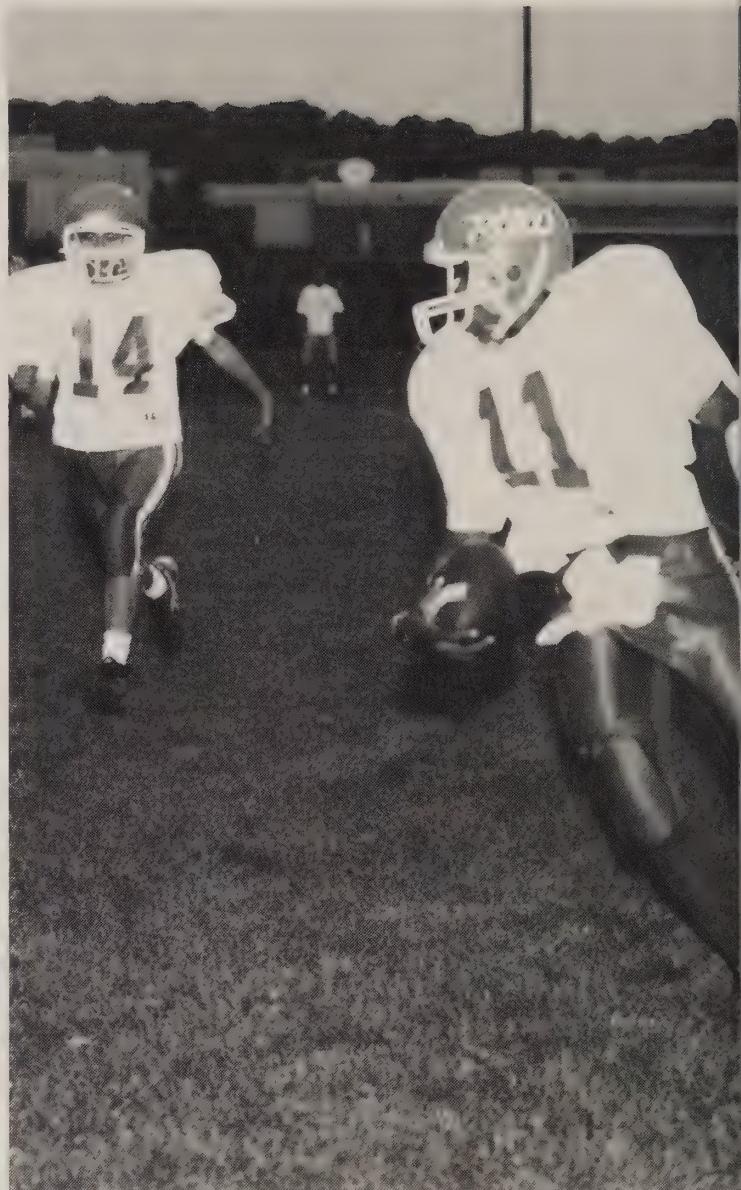

Waiting to execute a pass, Brian Hennessy looks around to see who is open, preferably in the endzone.

Rising the Few

What is your most memorable event during the season?

"I would have to say the most memorable event in the season was, our first game which was with St.Stephen / St.Agnes. We beat them 2-0. They had us shut-out for a couple of years and we scored two goals. We played as one unit. That was the first time we saw Coach Carl do her Russian jump.

- Stephanie Yoo

Seniors Stephanie Yoo, Melissa Weyrick, Paige Butler, Kristen Day, Liz Hall, Stephanie Schneider, Kathryn Egan, Jill Harlow, Courtney Gowen, and Melanie Brophy made their last field hockey season a great one.

Practice makes perfect Katie Laing learns that practicing dodges over and over, really helps when it comes up in a game.

Being congratulated by Dr. Weinheimer for a job well done, Stephanie Schneider accepts the flower and gets in line with the rest of her team.

Playing awesome defense, Senior Melanie Brophy tries to take the ball away from the Lancer opponent and is successful.

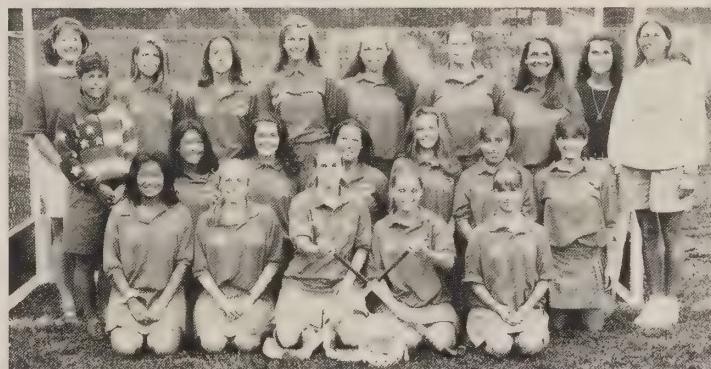

"My most memorable moment from the '96 season was when we went to play Cox. We built great friendships and became close within the team."

-Kathryn Egan

Getting psyched up for the homecoming parade, senior Courtney Gowen expresses her love for the game.

Isn't this little kid cute? Well, you could always find Tanner Karl by his mother's side cheering on our Lady Rebels. He even had his own stick!

While keeping control of the ball Kristen Day carries it up the field in hope for an awesome goal.

Driving Towards Victory

What has been your Most memorable experience this year?

"My most memorable experiences was at our last game because we all finally came together as a team and worked together."

- Rebecca Howley

What is the hardest part about Field Hockey overall?

"The dedication is the hardest part about field hockey. You have to be able to take out a lot of personal time for it."

-Cathy Parks

Was Field Hockey different from what you expected?

"YES, I thought it was going to be an easy sport, but it takes a lot of work and commitment in order for it to be easy."

-Gloria Kim

What was your most memorable experience in Field Hockey?

"The funniest was when I painted Catherine Ladino's face with mud, after a rain storm."

-Merril Jelenek

Saving the goal again, Vickey Palmer rushes to get the ball away from the other teams possession.

A key to the success of J.V. Field Hockey team is excellent focus and determination.

Fairfax's strong defense shows concentration and preparation for a corner.

With a great amount of determination, Rebecca Howley steals the ball from the opposing team.

determined to protect the goal, Nicole Bradee and Amanda Russcol race the opposing team.

Once a team, always a team J.V. Field Hockey gets revved up for a strong and competitive game.

Jordan Sorenson and Merril Jelinek discuss strategy to a nail biting game.

Tons of Enthusiasm

What do you say to encourage your team-mates to do their best?

"It's not what you can't do it's what you can do. It's me, it's me!

These cheerleaders know how to pump up a crowd! Amanda Sutherland, Kelly Lender and Samantha Miller are doing a great job cheering on the Varsity team.

Always smiling while cheering, Elizabeth Newman is happy to be on the Varsity squad.

After an exhausting cheer, Jenny Scott pauses a minute to take a sip of her water. Doing lots of jumps and stunts made her tired, so Jenny drank water to gear herself up for the next sequence.

While the band plays a tune, the cheerleaders jump around and show their spirit by trying to get the crowd involved.

Performing this difficult stunt, Alison Scovers is tight and holds herself well, considering there are only two girls holding up her one foot.

Experimenting with new flyers, Ashley Dyke, Kelly Fitzgerald, and Stacey Claytor have no problem adjusting to the new heights. Even though being high up in the air is scary, they handle it nicely--and even with a smile.

At one of the Saturday football games, Amy Bosman shows her spirit by doing some chants for the crowd.

Anxiously waiting by the fence to hear the new Homecoming Queen be announced, some of the Varsity Cheerleaders look at the nominees standing with their fathers.

How do you feel?

Few people would deny that cheerleading's reputation consists of stereotypes claiming that cheerleaders are ditzy, blonde, and clueless. Obviously, those cheerleaders are not on the squads at Fairfax. Just looking at the Freshman and Junior Varsity squads reveals that the combined grade point average is 3.0. This is the highest grade point average of all the fall sports. There are no clueless girls here!

Cheerleaders are forever harassed and teased. Freshman Tricia Apostolakis does not put up with sarcastic and demeaning remarks. "I tell the people they can't make fun of something they haven't experienced."

Jenny Segui on the JV squad thinks, "People don't know about the hard work and dedication it takes to be a cheerleader. I hate stereotyping!"

One highlight to the football season is the Homecoming game. This year the game was held on October 19th. As a tradition, the JV and Freshman squads cheer with the Varsity girls during the second half. Jeanne Shewmaker, on the freshman squad recalls, "I felt special because so many people were watching me! It was neat to cheer with the best cheerleaders, too."

Fellow freshman Michelle Hershman had other things in mind, "I was really nervous because I didn't want to mess up."

As the younger generation of cheerleaders at Fairfax improves and advances, the future of the Varsity squad looks bright and promising!

Rarely seen without a smile on her face, freshman Kelly Olsick lets the crowd know she's having a good time.

It's always fun to cheer for a winning team! The Freshman squad cheers the mighty Rebels on to a 20-0 score against Parkview in the third quarter.

FORE VICTORY!

The golf team finished the season strong with third place in the Northern Region Golf Tournament. The team consisting of twelve members, came on strong the second day and finished up third, narrowly missing a team birth into State Tournament. The team finished behind Centreville and

Lake Braddock in the eight team field. However, freshman Matt Johnson advanced to State Tournament individually after finishing seventh and winning a playoff hole. Good performances were also turned in by senior Tim Price and junior Ryan Zook. The team advanced to Regionals with a strong performance at districts where they finished sec behind Madison. This was coming off a season in which the team was 9-1-1 overall, with a 6-1 record in the Liberty District earning them second place. "Next season if we all improve we have a good shot at advancing to State Tournament," said junior Ryan Zook.

Three seniors, Tim Price, Chris Fabio, and Wes McLendon express their love for the game during the pep rally.

Before a tournament, Steve Yeager practices his putting. Putting is often found to be one of the most frustrating skills to master.

Paul Izzo tees off to a great start at the Army Navy Country Club. Paul made a great effort while playing in the District Tournament.

Getting out of the rough, co-captain Ryan Zook sizes up the ball with his nine iron. With steady concentration he makes a perfect chip shot into the hole.

-Brent Forster

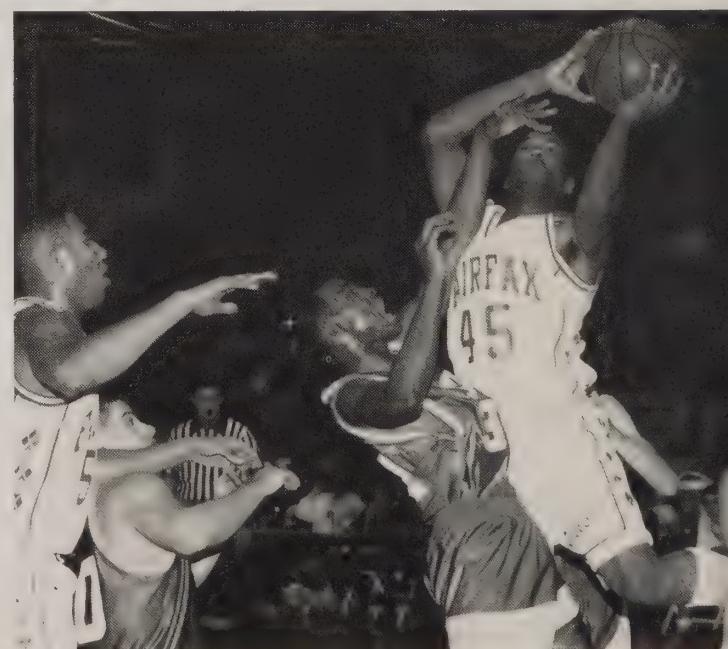

-Linny Bradley

Like an artist putting the finishing touches on a painting, Coach Henry prepares his team for a winning second half.

Fairfax players show exactly why basketball is a contact sport. Seniors Linny Bradley, Mike Casey, and Mike Hayes have proven that working together is one of the keys to success.

Mike Daniels shows why he is often called the phenomenal freshman. In one year at Fairfax high school his sports career has consisted of only varsity sports, something that most freshmen find very difficult to accomplish.

Strength, power, and determination come naturally to Kenny Frye every time he steps on the court to play ball.

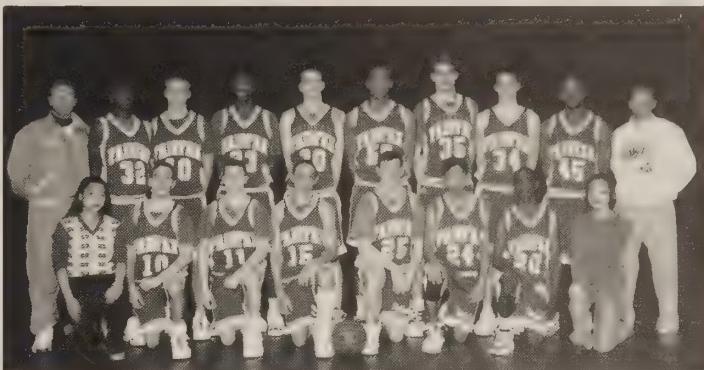

ing against one of Fairfax's rivals, Linny Bradley shows that he has the best jump on the team.

Defying Gravity

What is the most exciting moment in a game?

The most exciting moment is when the game is really close and you know that everyone is giving their hearts out, and of course when you win."

-Sharon Feeney

What was the best part of the season?

"I think the best part of the season was when we all started to come together and play as a team."

-Gwynne Smith

"The best part of my season was when I had "words" with Mr. King."

-Marzena Fercz

"When the bench stepped up and started playing the way we know how."

CLASSIC Moments

The annual Northern Region Wrestling Classic left the Rebels tied at fourth place. Individual wins soared with high placements including Eric Ballew placing 4th in the 152 weight class and John Eastman taking the championship in the 145 pound weight class.

A REBUILDING Year?

Have you ever heard of a rebuilding year with a record of 6-0-1? After sweeping the Liberty District, 11 out of 14 team members moved to Regional competition. Individual placements were outstanding as well. In the 103 weight class, Sanjeev Patel placed 2nd, in 112 Louis

Lameles took 1st, in 119 Felix Hu placed 4th, in 125 Adam Turi placed 2nd, in 130 Jimmy Sprague took 4th place, John McDonnell placed 3rd and John Eastman was 1st in the 145 weight class, in 152 Eric Ballew won 4th place, George Greczmiel placed 4th, in 215 Justin Potter won 1st, and heavyweight Chris Ward placed 2nd.

I always think about the moves I'm going to work in the match. Of course they look better in my head than when I actually do them." As a junior on varsity since his freshman year, Eric Ballew proves planning ahead is definitely the way to win.

Poised and ready to strike, junior George Greczmiel focuses on the match. Total concentration gives George an edge over his opponent.

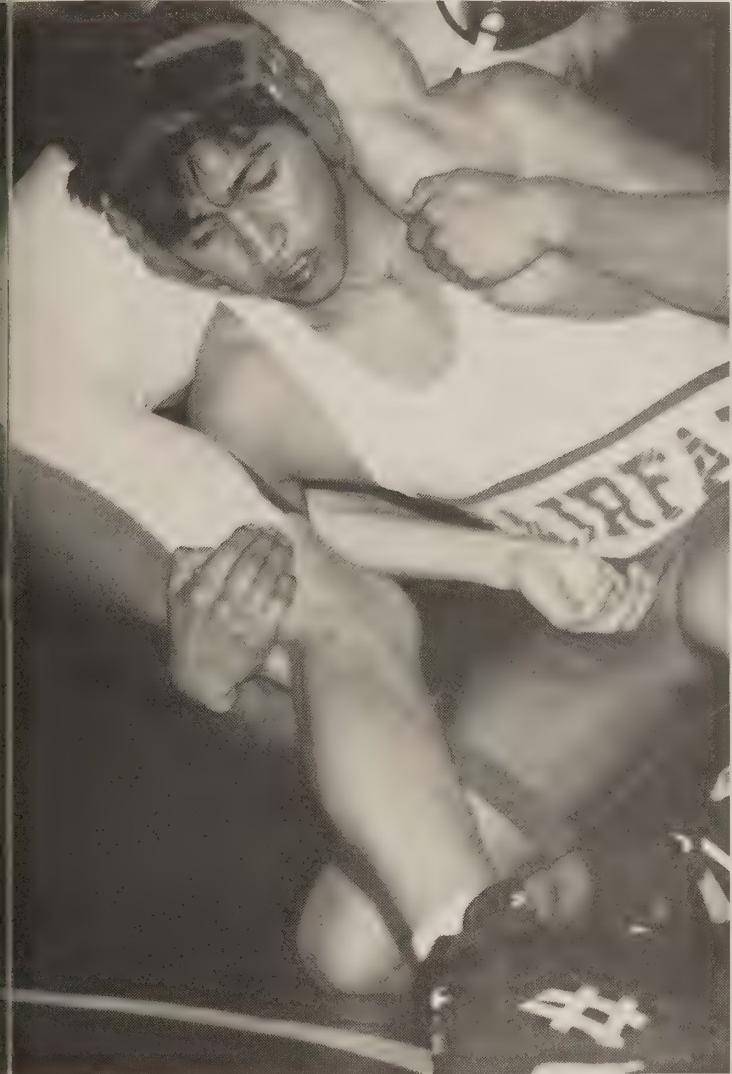

A friendly gentleman's handshake is the traditional beginning to all wrestling matches. Junior Justin Potter examines his opponent and devises a strategy for his defeat.

Down for the pin, Chris Ward shows no mercy! As a dominating heavyweight, Ward is one of the few freshman on the varsity team.

ur years of determination, good times and success, gave senior Louis Meles wonderful memories to take with him when he graduated. Meles demonstrates the skill of a superior wrestler when taking down opponent.

What was the best part about Swim and Dive this year?

"Swimming was great fun with my friends."

-Erin Jones

"The best part about swimming was our awesome relays that made it all the way to states."

-Amanda Banholzer

"The best part about swimming was hanging out with my friends, Emily and Sukanya."

-Liz Gonzalez

"Katy and the Italian Stallion. You both rule the pool!"

-Chris Denhardt

"Meeting new people and all the memorable experiences we shared together."

Hit 'em High, Hit 'em Low...

"Our team is full of spirit and we played each match with everything we had."

-Jill Perlmutter

"I love this team, it's awesome!"

-Erin Norris, Team Captain

"Being a freshman on varsity helped me feel confident coming into a new school."

-Gina Porch

"Tennis is a good sport. It builds your self-confidence, stamina, and strength, and you can do the sport for your entire life."

-Chris Sorensen

God, I love this game!", exclaims varsity player Hoon Park before he pounds his opponent with another serve. "I practice all the time and I play aggressively and to win." Hoon states, proving his point by rushing the net and volleying to score. Hoon has been playing tennis for years, but this is his first year on the team. Hoon is so into it, he says that after everyone else has left, he "plays with himself." Way to go Hoon!

Warming up before practice, Thomas Chang hits the ball across the court. Loosening up is important to practicing at your best.

Truly a wonder! A freshman on the varsity team, Craig Anderson has worked hard to earn the nickname "freshman wonder boy" from his peers.

Returning the ball with a perfect forehand, Gina Porch is enjoying her first year on the team. As a freshman, she has distinguished herself by making varsity.

Playing hard is all part of the game for John McNeil as he returns the ball to Thomas Chang.

"I like the athletics, I like the outfits, and I like the sport itself." Danievie Liwanag says as she walks off the court in her tennis clothes.

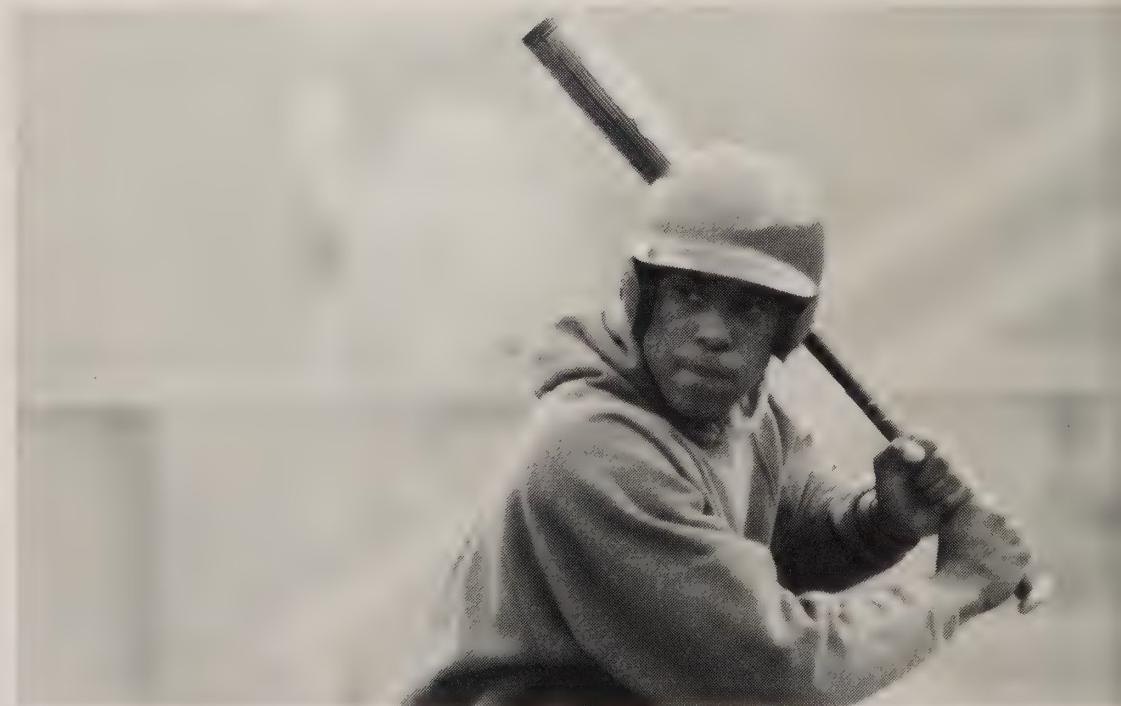

"Allying is good practice for games," says Chris Sorensen as he and Hoon Parks hit the ball back and forth. Both Chris and Hoon play varsity tennis, though Chris has been on the team longer, they enjoy playing each other to improve their game.

Line Drive

With high expectations for this years team, second team all-district pitcher Garry Sealock steps up to the plate to show his awesome ability as a pitcher.

How do you think the team is going to do this year compared to last year?

"I think we can go a long way if we learn to play together as a team and do all the little things right."

-Garry Sealock

"It is an honor to play on the varsity baseball team this year, I really think we can go far if we all work together."

-Brad Thomas

"The varsity baseball team is going to rock this year! We're going all the way baby!"

-Mike Freeman

Concentrating and keeping his eye on the ball ,Andy Nix hopes for a base hit for the rebels.

At first base Brad Thomas makes a quick decision to throw home and get the runner out before he scores.

J.V player Brad Thomas slides safely into second as the ball rolls by the second baseman.

Over the Fences

"With a combination of new and old players who work really well together we think we'll go far this year."
- Janine Klein & Sharon Feeney

"I love to play softball & I love coach Hanley!"
- Liz Hall

"Softball is really fun. We have a great team this year and Hyatt is a groovy coach."
- Kara French

"I think that this year we are going to get far and I hope we do. I also just want to say bye to the seniors and I love you all!" - Courtney Whittington

"Linda would be nothing without me!"
- Kristy Roderick

"Kristy would be nothing without me!"
- Linda Young

Sophomore, Courtney Whittington fields the ball during in-field practice. She played Varsity ball her freshman year and is continuing to do so this year.

Senior, Linda Young has high expectations for this year's team and her own performance. She has been shutting out opponents for three years already and she is hoping this year will be no different.

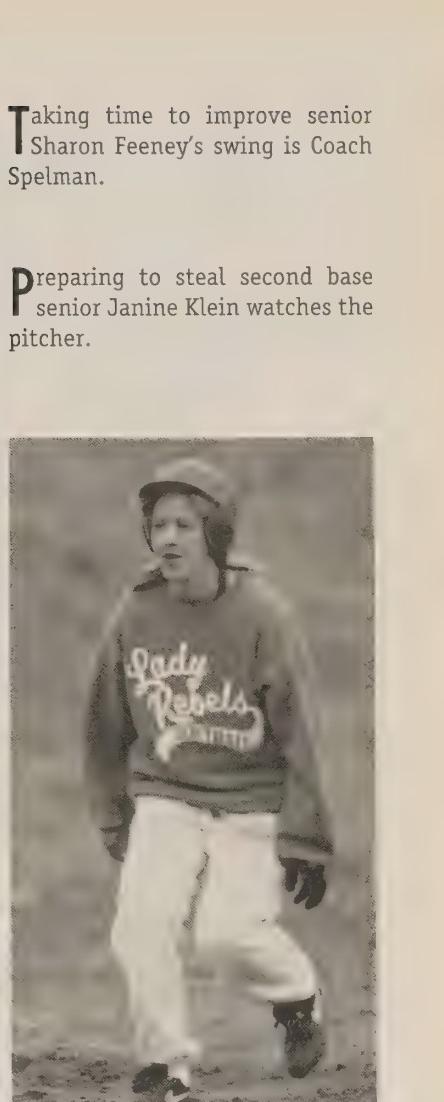

Senior, Alicia Neumann steps up to the plate during batting practice. "BP is my favorite part of practice," said Alicia.

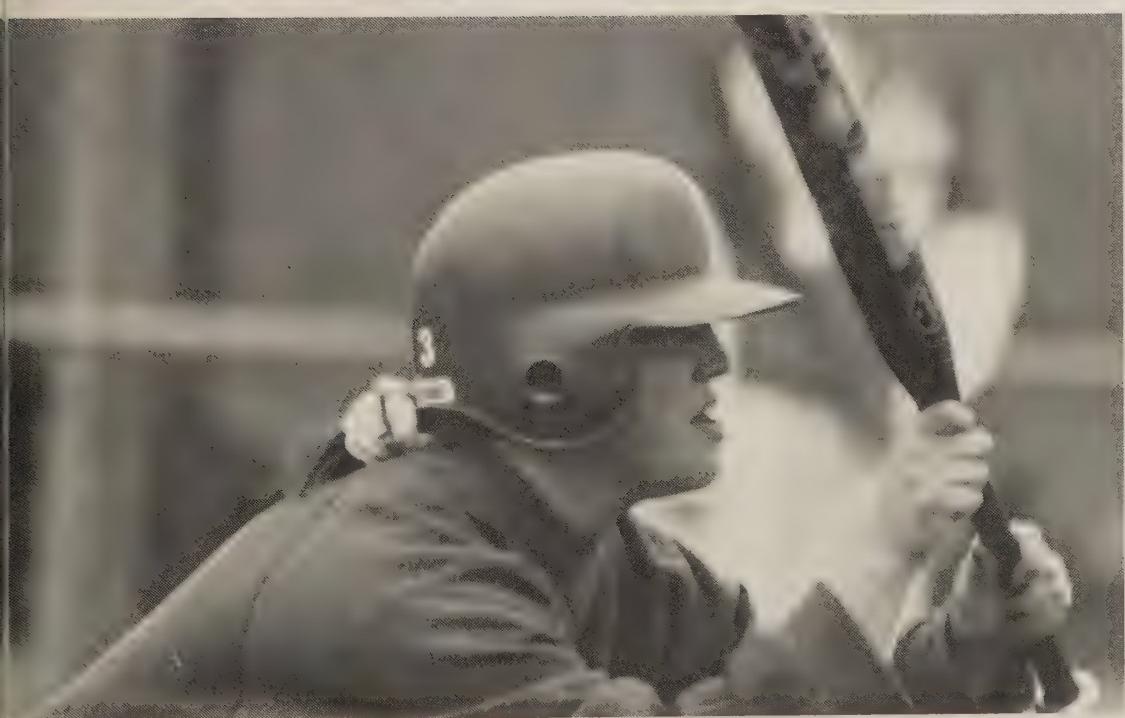

Taking time to improve senior Sharon Feeney's swing is Coach Spelman.

Preparing to steal second base senior Janine Klein watches the pitcher.

Senior, Kristen Day rounds the bases after hitting a homerun.

ior, Melanie Brophy lays down a bunt at batting practice. "The bunt is not the most glorious play but has won many games."

Making himself more comfortable, second-year coach Chuck Humphries talks to varsity prospect Jason Hirabayashi.

After beating defender Colin Rooney, Chad Martin moves downfield to take on the next defender.

Skillfully avoiding defenders, Senior starter Kevin Gable deftly dribbles downfield.

Hey, look what I found!" As Varsity team members Isaac Uchiyama, Gideon Mackay, Chad Martin and Jason Hirabayashi look on, fellow teammate Colin Rooney tries to get on, or off actually, the ball.

As Mike Park and Derek Seeley look on, Senior Pat Cosgriff controls the ball, preparing to move downfield.

Jockeying for position, Chad Martin and David Neumann battle for possession of the ball.

Give And Go

Focussed on the ball, Junior Mike Park attempts to clear the ball away from the on coming attack as David Aponte watches attentively.

Looking perturbed, Sophomore David Newmann prepares for yet another day of practice.

Moving into space, Colin Rooney runs onto the ball as David Newmann watches.

GOALDEN GIRLS

"Last year I lived on a military base in Japan, and there wasn't a girls soccer team so I got to play with the guys. I hope that experience will help me add to a successful team this year."

-Marit Barnett

"I'm looking forward to a great season (and getting my butt kicked by Huff everyday!)"

-Melissa Lewis

"REMEMBER THE MISSION!"

-Jen Rutherford

"This season I think our team will do good if we all cooperate and work together."

-Kora Stafford

"I'll be sad to leave such a great soccer program. Good luck to future teams!"

-Melissa Weyrick

"You're looking at the National Champions!"

-Kathleen Huff

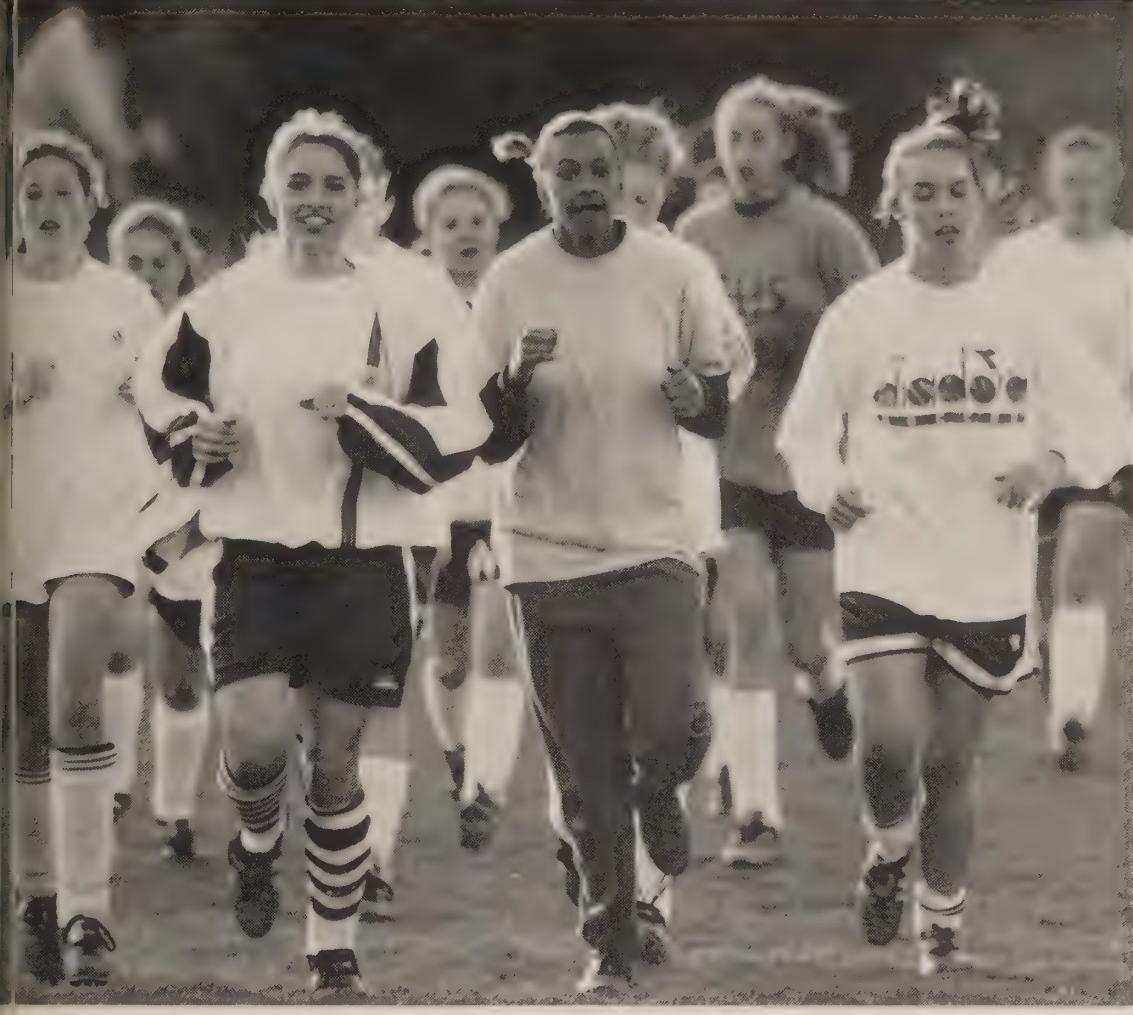

One of the JV team's most experienced defenders, sophomore co-captain Kim Owsley does a great job at sweeper. She hopes to have another winning season.

Ball skills are very important in being successful as a soccer player. Senior captain Kathryn Egan takes a header during practice. Her leadership and experience will be greatly missed next year.

Lacrosse practice is usually very tiring and can be very demanding. All of the players must be extremely dedicated to the team and the practice schedule. These three guys get ready for a drill during practice.

Check Again

Passing is always a crucial part of every game. Executing a perfect pass takes precision and accuracy from the passer and the player receiving the pass. Here, Sean Lynch makes himself available for the play.

"Lacrosse has been great the last three years, but this year has been the best. There is much more team unity on and off the field. We all hope to do really well in the district and maybe even the region. CASCADeS."

-Captain Matt Hilton

"Lacrosse is a game of speed and skill mixed with brutality."

-Tim Neunn

"It's a whole heck of a lot better than any other sport."

-Scott O'Brien

"Lacrosse is tighter."

-Carter Gunn

In hopes that no other opponent is chasing him, Mike Tatum sprints his fastest to the other side of the field.

Spotting an open teammate down the field, Dave Graham prepares himself to get rid of the ball.

Always ready for anything, Steve Long runs into open space, waiting to receive the ball.

Check Us Out

"The team was small this year, and that gave us the chance to become closer."

-Eunice Bae

UNITY

"I really felt like we were a team this year. Even though we were a large team, we learned to work together and appreciate everyone."

-Tiffany Ball

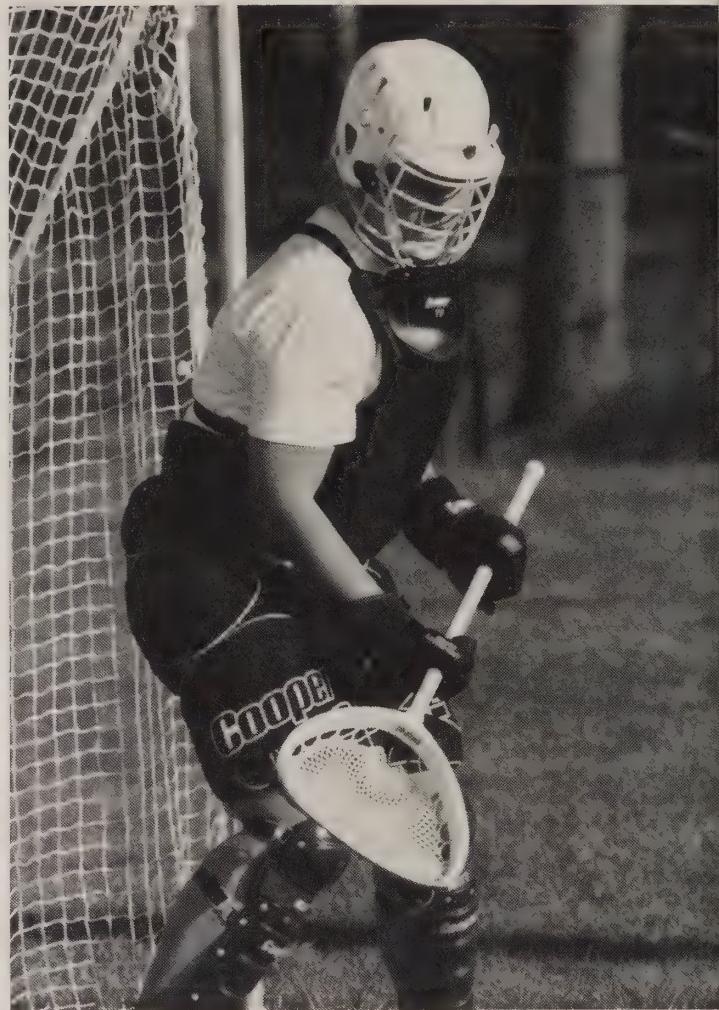

"This was my first year on Varsity and I learned a lot about being part of a team. Because of our size we were able to work together and build a real sense of Unity."

-Jordan Sworenson

"The J.V. Team was really big, but I we were able come together and learn from each other."

-Cathy Parks

One of the two Varsity Goalies, Meghan Bavier, learned that there is a lot more to the position than standing around. Meghan and the other Goalie, Bree Babcock, helped the Varsity Team to play one of their best seasons since Women's Lacrosse started.

The basics of the game are what's most important, even to Varsity players like Justine McCracken. After receiving the ball Justine scored an important goal.

On Junior Varsity it's often hard to understand the game, as Bonnie Smith and Sunnie Park learned this year. During practice they often had to concentrate hard before grasping the point.

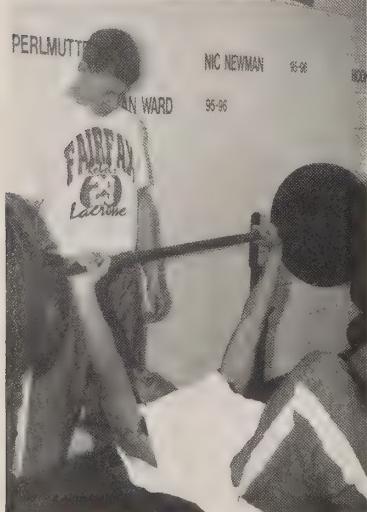

In this drill, Sophia Lee practices catching, running, throwing, and cradling which are all very important skills to have in lacrosse.

Always ready for the opponent, Gloria Kim waits for the offense. Gloria played an important part on both sides of the field this year on J.V.

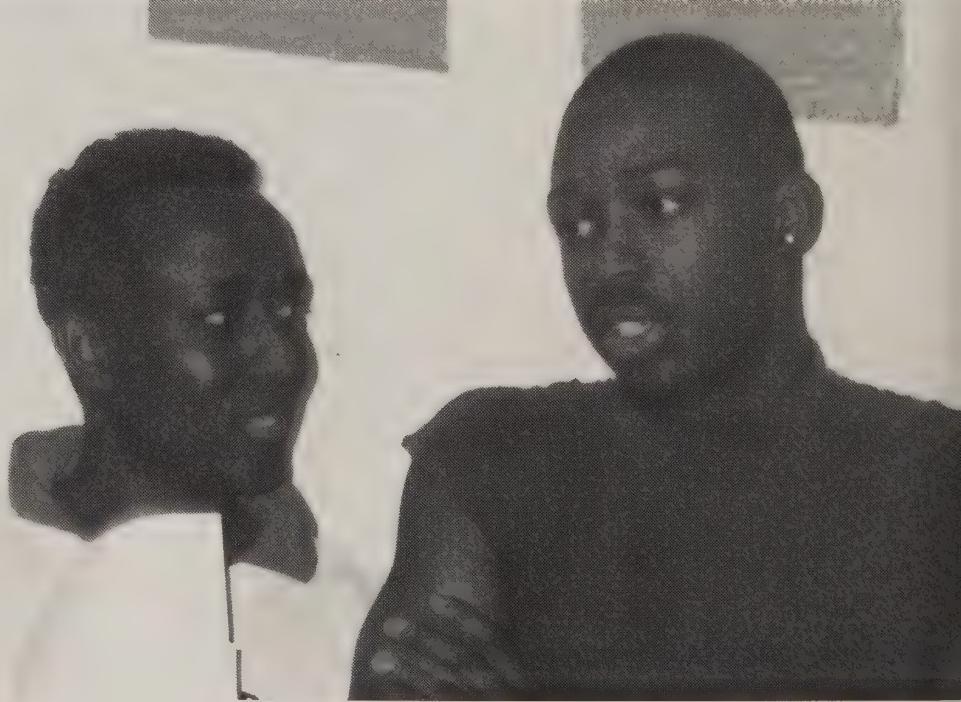

Besides being a lot of work, Lacrosse is also a lot of fun. The juniors this year including Allye Bryant, Leila Heidari, and Sophia Lee, were all smiles on their first year on Varsity.

Distance running is one of the hardest areas of track, but fortunately Veronica Clemens is naturally talented! Obviously she really enjoys it too!

The boys team is preparing for another district title this season, led by members such as seniors Sean McDonald and Ted Royster.

Coaching strategy is a huge part of having a successful track team. Coaches Hassan Ahmed and Craig Johnson are happy to be coaching both girls and boys teams this year.

UNIFIED SPEED

All the members of both track teams pose for a group picture, excited to be joined for the first time in thirteen years. The teams joined together for various reasons, including better organization and providing the girls with more coaches.

"You must remember, I run track, so a second is a long amount of time to me! Watch out Bryan Florence!"

-Ernest Rutherford

"The key to being successful in track is being mentally tough and not giving to your weaknesses."

-Danielle Rinaldi

"It's great our teams finally joined after all this time. The girls will really help us run faster 'cause we must impress them with our speed!"

-Jimmy Newton Estep

"Nothing can replace the incredible feeling of crossing the finish line knowing you couldn't have possibly run any faster!"

-Jordan Sorenson

Weightlifting helps build muscle, essential when uniforms are sleeveless! Stacey Claytor and Claire Dickman buff up.

A pre-workout chat helps Rebecca Coffin and Danielle Rinaldi get more out of practice. Both are very active members of the team

Get Involved

Getting involved at Fairfax is easy because of the variety of clubs available to students. No matter what their interests, students always find something to be part of. Clubs provide great opportunities to have fun with your friends as well as to meet new people.

Many of the clubs at PHS provide students with the chance to travel and go on trips. Model U.N. had a wonderful opportunity this year to go to Harvard for a conference. In the fall, the band and colorguard traveled to James Madison University to compete. Students involved in publications went to Chicago for a journalism conference. If you love traveling, join some clubs! Remember, the more clubs you join, the more places you'll see!

Clubs at PHS are fun because of the people in them. With all of the different clubs available at PHS, you meet many types of people. Each club has its own group and by being involved with lots of clubs, you get the chance to find your niche. You can join a club with your closest friends and have a blast. Joining a club is the best and the easiest way to meet people. You have something in common—the club—and it's easy to form a friendship from there.

Clubs are fun and a great way to meet people, but the best part is that there are so many to choose from. There really is something for everyone!

Take a Bow

If you could be anyone, past or present, real or fictional, who would you be? At one point in our lives we've all been asked that question. And for most of us the answer is inconsequential, because we will never be able to metamorphosize into someone else. But for those few talented actors in Drama, for a moment in time they are able to become a completely different person. And they allow us to travel with them into their new world.

This year the thespians took us behind the scenes into their world with their performance of the farce Noises Off. We saw the hard work that they put into it with a twist of comedy that was hilarious. I couldn't stop laughing. But it also made me appreciate for all the hard work that went into all their performances," commented Bridget McNeill. Later in the year the actors got to try their hand at directing in A Night of One Acts and taking us to an insane asylum. Then in the late spring the actors tested their vocal cords with the musical Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat and transported the audience to Biblical times.

Overall this year the Drama Department took its audiences behind the scenes and across time while becoming people the rest of us can only dream about.

"I think Drama is the most diverse and unique club in the school."

Speaking Out

Do you think that you have what it takes to succeed in Forensics or Debate? You might want to ask yourself a few questions first.

First of all, do you have a big mouth? One of the primary keys to success in these classes is being loud. No matter how effective your arguments are, how can anyone agree with you if they can't hear you? You have to be loud in order to get your point across. This doesn't necessarily mean that you have to shout (after all, that could get fairly annoying), just merely be loud enough to be heard.

Secondly, do you argue? All of those special experiences with our parents you can have the ample), but how won those you have your parents wrapped around your finger obeying your every command, then debate is definitely the perfect class for you. Why not be able to put those skills to more use than just on the weekends?

Lastly, can you talk in front of a group of people? If you feel comfortable in a crowd other than your close friends than you might have what it takes for these classes. But if you're one of the many who get butterflies in their stomachs when you're called on in class, don't be discouraged. These classes are the perfect opportunity to overcome these fears. You'll learn new tricks, other than just picturing everyone in their underwear, to help you feel more comfortable in front of a crowd.

Leading the way

A banner with the words "Singled Out" scrawled upon it in bright red letters stretches across a wall in the commons. Students are tossing frozen turkeys on the floor and cheering when they knock down empty plastic soda bottles. This is the distinctive work of the Fairfax Student Government. "I love being a part of making important school decisions and being involved with students," says senior Lena Ghannan. All day long, especially during fifth period, you can find members of leadership and SG trying their hardest to make school and raise most exciting part in are usu-Homecoming carnival and projects these to. "Spirit week part of being in fun working on pep rally," say treasurer Lara Lylozian and Paige Butler. All the hard work takes a lot of energy, though. Katie Johnson was relieved when Homecoming weekend was over. "It was so stressful!" Student Government doesn't just organize the big events during the school year. Every morning as tardy students rush to first period, members of the most influential group in school inform the students of Fairfax what's going on, usually with a few giggles and a sign off of "Have a tubular Tuesday" or "a Freaky Friday!" The results of Student Government's hard work are seen in successful dances as well as games with squirt guns and alka seltzer tablets, constantly reminding us what would we do without them?

"We'd have no fun at school without Student Government."

Striving For First

When you join a team, like Model U.N. or It's Academic you learn to compete against some of the best students in the area. You have the pain of losing or the joy of winning. When you join a club you get to go to places for special competitions to show how much you really know.

Whether it is a sport or clubs like Model UN or It's Academics or Jazz band, these groups very seriously they would. Most students, because club you have your own your are good to go to na- with others of edge or skill of talent in an instrument.

*"Competing

think quickly."
-Habib Egziabher*

Many clubs at FHS offer the opportunity for competition. The It's Academic club gives students the chance to be on T.V. and answer trivia questions. Model U.N. members travel across the area to different high schools to compete. The music program at Fairfax is very extensive, with a large membership. Students involved in the program not only get to perform for their peers at Fairfax, but around the area in various festivals.

One of the clubs that competes most frequently is Model United Nations. Habib Egziabher and his partner competed in the conference held by C.D. Hilton and won an award.

Most people have never been there. Mention the greenhouse and most people will say 'What green house?'. One person thought there was pool on top of the roof. It's true, not many people know about, or have seen the greenhouse.

Leading the Way

Fairfax High School has always been a successful school in whatever it is we are trying to achieve. This can be attributed to many different things; hard work, dedication, excellent schooling. But the one area in which we are always strong is the presence of great leadership throughout our school system. In whatever field you will find greatest leaders to offer. students who desire not just but to take field to another step up to the challenge at hand and lead their fellow classmates to the best of their ability. It is because of them that we all strive to succeed. They lead not only through their words and speeches but also through their own example. They tell us how to succeed as well as showing us how it is to be done. It can truly be said that without the outstanding leadership here at Fairfax we would not be the school that we have come to be today.

The "Rebel Rouser" officially became Fairfax's mascot this year, thanks to all the hard work from SCAT. They organized the drawing and the voting, in which the Rebel Rouser beat out the Falcon and the Bull Dog.

The Rebel Rouser was drawn by Casey Kanode early in the year and later there were tryouts for who would lead the school as the mascot.

"I liked SCAT, because it's the first club I've been in where I've actually helped the school. Through planning the mascot and running the voting, I think we helped give the school more spirit. In years to come the mascot will represent Fairfax and all the hard work of SCAT."

Taking Action

Vou may not know what SCAT is; you may not know who's in it or what they do. Despite all of this, SCAT (School Community Action Team) plays a large part in making life at Fairfax better.

Many of the things you take for granted at Fairfax are arranged by SCAT. They organize some dances and other school functions. They also school wide lock-scheduled to take ruary 10th but tunately can- to fire codes.

"The thing I liked most about being on the SCAT team was meeting people and making new friends. 'SCAT rocks!' "

new friends. SCAT rocks.

-Jada Beazer

ever, the thing done arrange the tion for our cot of which this school has been absent since 1986. The process began in the 1995-1996 school year in which students took part in a preliminary voting to determine which types of creatures would become finalists for the new mascot. Then students were invited to draw their opinions of what the mascot should look like. The three finalists were: an animal wearing a jacket, a falcon, and the eventual winner, "The Rebel Rouser".

Now you know what SCAT is, and whether they arrange dances, parties, a lock-in, or a new mascot, SCAT is a group that works toward the common goal of making life at Fairfax better.

Some of the members of SCAT pause to relax after having passed out pamphlets about the upcoming Mascot voting.

Lending a Hand

No one can accomplish anything without help. Many of the activities and events at school can take place only with the help of students who are willing to put in their time and effort for the good of the school. Many National Honor Society members are willing to give time up to tutor others and clubs like the Key Club and the Keyettes often perform services for the community. The Government events that are the benefit of the Other kids volunteer to help out with the students and often that they benefit experience as well. Student Aids and Guidance Helpers help the teachers and office personnel who are often overloaded with work. Only by helping each other and offering support will things be accomplished and problems solved. Unfortunately only a small amount of students are willing to give up their time for service and the improvement of the school. More students should follow the example of their fellow peers.

"As a member of the National Honor Society, helping people gives encouragement to others and develops leadership skills for oneself."

-Jim Thompson

Mrs. Theisen would find it hard to manage things without the help of students. Matt Boone often devotes his time to helping the Special Ed kids. The students who volunteer their time get the privilege of learning how to work with the disabled.

To create staffers need graphs, write articles, and make interviews. This takes a lot of time during and out of school. "After all of the hard work and long hours I've put in, I hope it pays off," quotes three-year yearbook student April Olsick.

The new issues of the Fair Facts kept students involved and up to date with the happenings in the school. Jenny Segui said, "I guess the thing I like most about the newspaper is all the wonderful people I've met." Students involved in newspaper developed both writing skills and layout skills.

Actin' It Up

A Fairfax High School, Students have many opportunities to act out the roles of their peers. There are the Distributive Education Clubs of America or, DECA as it is called, the Thespian Honor Society, and the Fairfax Model United Nations Club all offer chances to immitate adult activities. In DECA, the students discover the adult world of business learn market goods, and vive and prosper in the modern business world. The Thespian Honor gives students a (forgive the pun) taste of the world of drama. They produce all of the High School's productions. The Fairfax Model United Nations Club is a group of students who act out the real United Nations. Sometimes there are historical scenarios, however, most of the debated are over current issues. In all three cases, students hone their oratory skills and prepare for the real world. The students can prepare by practicing now; by acting it out.

Take a Bow

The orchestra class has had a wonderful time this year. They performed in various concerts, including the winter concert, which also had performances from the band, chorus, and the A Capella singers. The orchestra played beautiful Christmas music and at the end came back to play in the last song, done by all three music groups together. They were led by their dedicated conductor, Mrs. Crumb. Each concert had many good solos, including master Koo, the principal by Tiffany. The orchestra has participated in different tests this year, the yearly District Festival being one of them. It was judged and they did well. They also competed in the Orlando, Florida festival. They played well in both of these events as they did in their concerts throughout the year, and most of the players felt that they did the best that they could have done and are thankful to Ms. Crumb for the time and effort she has put in throughout the entire year. The hard work and dedication from everyone who played in orchestra has contributed to making the year of 1997 one of the best that they've had.

"We're successful as long as we feel we've played the best we could."

- Tiffany Richardson

In preparation for a performance, sophomore Jeremy Cassanova practices his music so he will play well in the concert.

"The practices and rehearsals are always fun. It takes a lot of dedication and hard work, but having all your friends there helps keep it amusing. I have met a lot of people through the chorus program and had a lot of fun on this years spring trip to Orlando. This year was awesome!"

The Sweetness Of Sound

By watching their teacher attentively, Sheik Karbo, Joe Mills, Brandon Robinson, Justin Rice, and Nate Dunn hit the right note. They were all members of the Men's Chorus.

Being in chorus is great!" yells Shannon O'Dell when asked what chorus is like. The chorus practiced hard all year round, before and after school to make sure their performances were absolutely perfect. The A Capella choir sang at Spotlight on the Arts, the White House and even live on the radio station WMAL. The choir is made up of a tightly knit, working group of students that has earned a rating the last three years bringing grand champion to Fairfax. singing at Fair the community ing with the department on their production of Andrew Loyd Webber's Joseph and the Technicolor Dreamcoat. "Working the Chorus Department was really fun. I hope to work with them again before I leave," replied Brad Jutras when asked how the production went. The Choir traveled to Orlando this past spring after a substantial amount of fund-raising. "This year's trip was the best Spring trip that I have had the pleasure of going on with the Choir Department," stated Prudence Lo.

In a dress rehearsal Danny Stevens and Arlington Tyrell warm up their voices. The dress rehearsal was done in front of an audience made mostly of the parents that have a child in the Men's Chorus.

Giving directions to her Concert Choir, Mrs. Alexander explains the proper technique needed in order to produce the best sound.

Marching to the Music

"Of all my high school memories the ones I will never be able to forget are of my time in marching band."

A senior during her last year at Fairfax, Alice Ann Foulks was a proud member of the Marching Band. She worked hard throughout the year to prepare for the spring trip to New Orleans.

At every game the band could be seen cheering the team on with their uplifting songs. The members were required to play in every home game and some away games.

No matter what happens band members will always be there, even if they are not very happy about it. Jamie Oskins leans on his crutches at the Homecoming Parade.

More of a family than an organization, Marching Band and Colorguard lead the school in closeness and spirit. Both can be seen practicing in the sizzling heat of August until the chilly rain of November make sure Fairfax has the best halftime show in the area. "Marching Band is a lot of hard work all through the year, but the feeling of unity and accomplishment can't be found in any other organization in the school," said Erica Elvey, an officer in Marching Band. It is truly a year round commitment with practice and fundraising throughout the year, but everyone agrees there is no other club with the same feeling of warmth and togetherness.

Cheering loud, Nick Faber leads the band in their celebration of the football victory.

Everyday after school the Marching Band would practice for hours in the sweltering heat. The sessions were lead by Ms. Ulrey and the Drum Majors.

The Colorguard practiced hard all through the fall for their performances in the football games. Above, they warm up in front of the school before the game.

On The

Mrs. Mary Ulrey, Director of Bands for 12 years, enjoys helping students build musical skills. Rehearsal is Ulrey's time to reach out to students and let them see their potential. "There is no limit to how good or how musical a student can become. Instead of trying to finish a textbook, there is no real end to the musical process!"

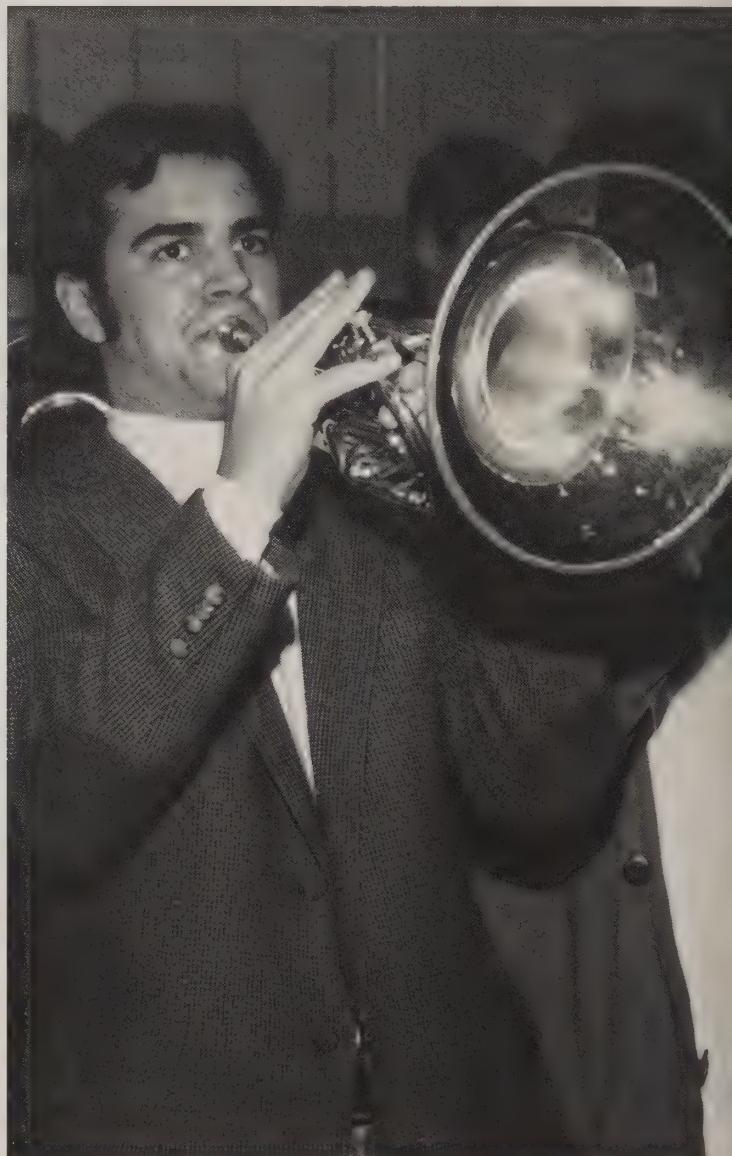

Welcome to the band family! Upper and lower classmen alike share in the experiences the band program has to offer. Memorable moments include the annual spring trip competition, seasonal concerts, and local competitions. Through hard work and dedication, band students gain confidence, make wonderful friends and become excellent musicians.

"Competition gives you a sense of accomplishment," recalls symphonic flute section leader Erica Elvey. "The setting puts us together to achieve success. When it happens, it's something wonderful!"

Concert Band 2, containing all grade levels, is the intermediate band in the program. Seniors Sandra Burroughs and Lauren Odenthal rehearse for the Winter Concert along with freshmen Cathy Parks and Karen Thoene.

The pride and dedication of seniors in the band program shine through "Italian Stallion" Tony Calabria. This year, as the recipient of the Spotlight on the Arts Scholarship, Tony is a member of the George Mason University Band.

The mighty alto saxophones of Concert Band 2, Alex Reinhart, Alex Cummings, and Nancy Bahrami, keep time and rhythm. Rehearsal is tough striving to perfect the repertoire of competition on the spring trip to New Orleans.

*P*ractice makes perfect! Focus and determination allow symphonic band members Erica Vogt and Marian Carroll to perform with poise and excellence!

The Homecoming Parade is a joint effort by students, faculty, and local merchants. They all come together and put on a wonderful parade. Jim McKay Chevrolet is a big contributor to the parade. It donates trucks and cars every year to be used along the parade route.

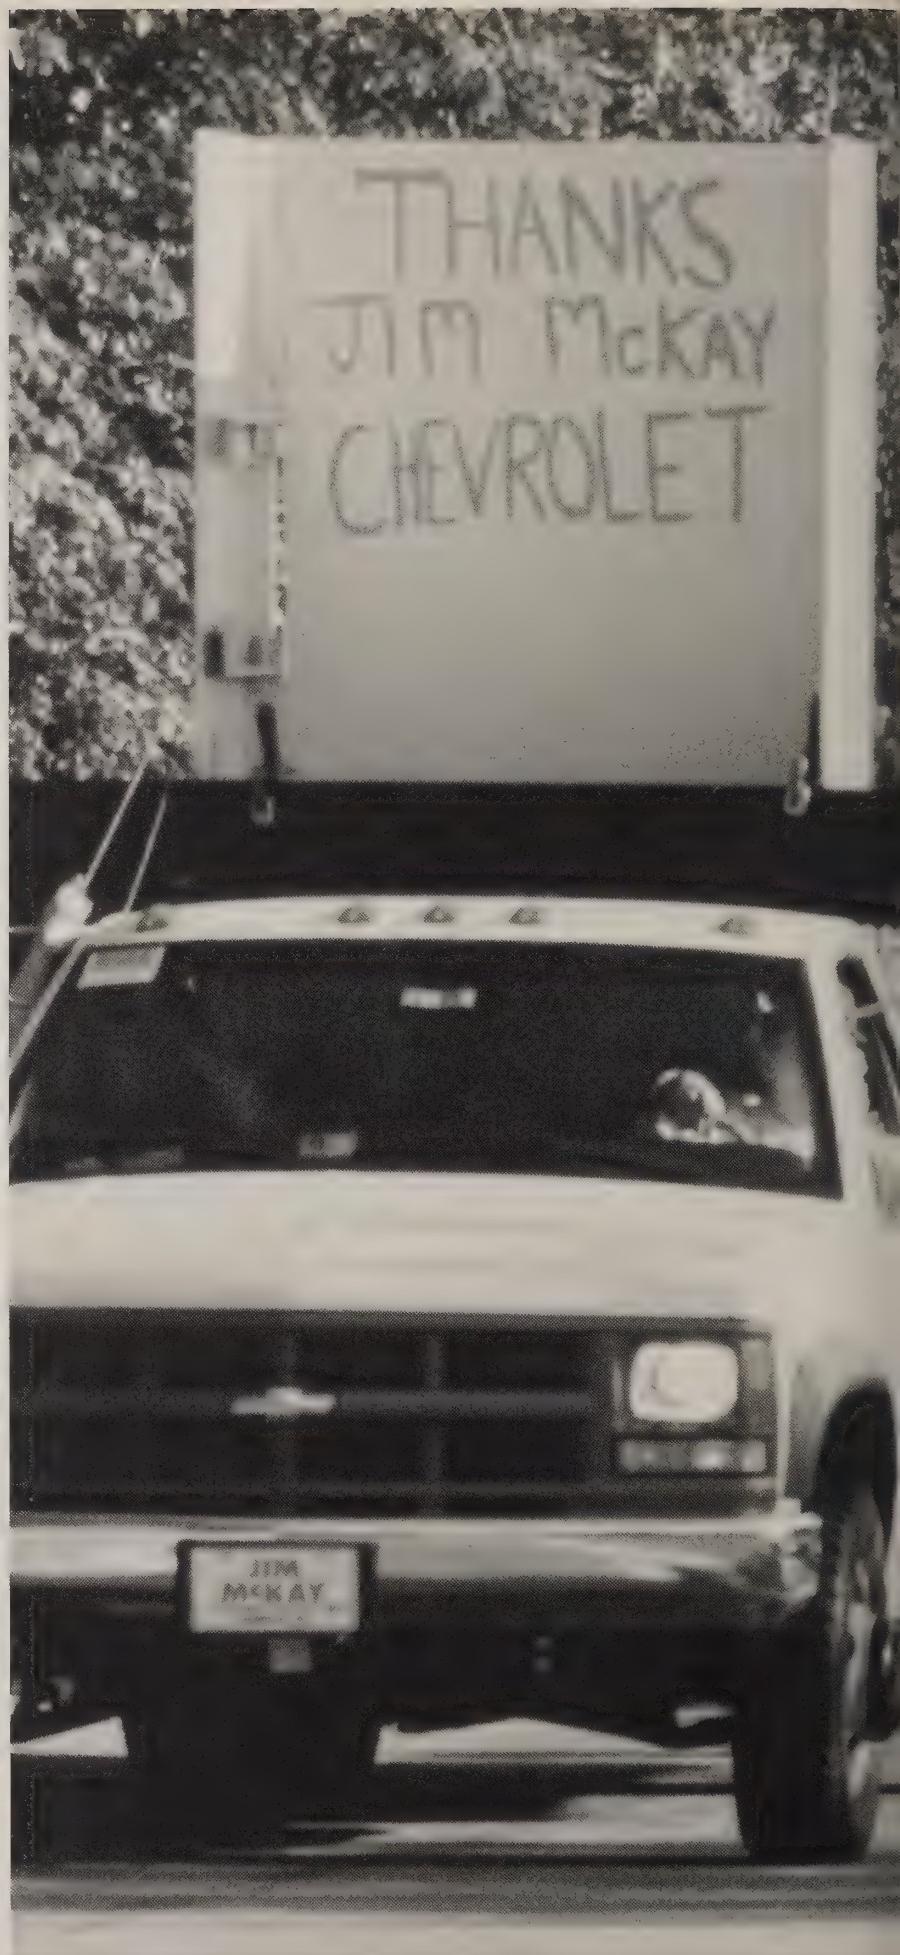

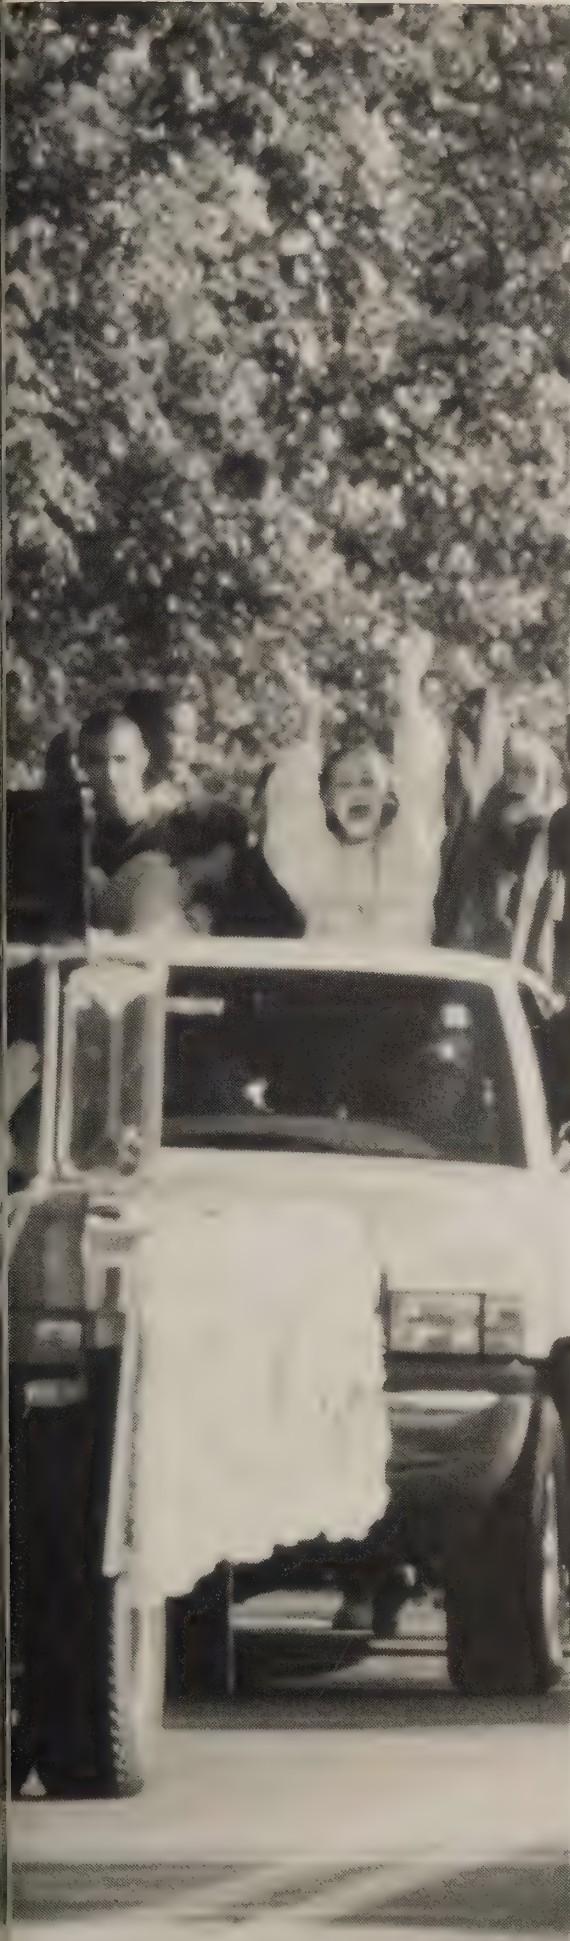

After 100 years of British rule, Hong Kong will become a Special Administrative Region of the People's Republic of China. England's lease on the island expires July 1, 1997.

The community gathers together to choose the best Homecoming Float each year. The classes spend many hard weeks perfecting their floats.

Nothing brings a city together like an exciting Homecoming football game played on a crisp autumn night. In Fairfax City, that's what happens. Along with students, the stands are filled with parents, FHS alumni and Fairfax citizens.

Coming Together

An important aspect of community is people coming together and working with each other. You cannot have a community without a lot of people working together for a common cause.

One of the things that makes our city so great is the community spirit that is evident throughout the year. There are many activities in Fairfax that allow for people to have loads of fun while helping out the community and meeting new people. The Chocolate Lover's Festival in February entices taste buds and brings citizens together by a common love- chocolate. The Spotlight on the Arts gives local artists the opportunity to show off their talents while at the same time exposing people to different cultures and arts. The Fall Festival allows merchants to sell their products and for local politicians to get in the last bits of campaigning. In all these exciting events, the Fairfax community joins together to put on the festivals. Many volunteers get involved and everyone does excellent work!

Of course, community spirit does not end in our backyard. People come together all around the world and accomplish wonderful things. The best example of that were the Olympics this past summer in Atlanta. There was a record number of athletes and countries going for the gold in Georgia. The competition was fierce and the underdogs came through on many occasions to win. Community spirit was most evident in lieu of the Olympic Park bombing. People came together after the explosion to show that the peaceful nature of the games would win out over violence, and it did!

Community is important to all of us. While there have been many great individuals in the past, some of the greatest accomplishments have been group efforts.

Decision '96

Months of campaigning and debating come to an end on November 5, 1996- Election Day had finally arrived! Being a presidential election year, Election Day this year was more than just a relaxing day off from school. This year, the last president of this century was chosen.

It was a great contest this year, with President Bill Clinton representing the Democrats and former senator Bob Dole running the Republican ticket. Ross Perot also provided some good competition representing the Reform Party. President Clinton won and gets to rule the White House for another four years.

The popular vote was very close. Clinton received 49% of the votes, while Dole got 41%. Perot was up there with 8% of the votes. The electoral votes, however, were a different story. It was a landslide for Clinton. Candidates need to get at least 270 electoral votes to win. Clinton got 379 electoral votes, while Dole got 159.

Although the Republicans lost the presidential race, they still control Congress. In the Senate, the Republicans lost one seat, but they still have the majority with 53 seats. The Democrats gained two seats in the Senate. In the House of Representatives, the Republicans lost 10 seats. Seems like a lot, but they still control the House with 225 seats. The Democrats gained 11 seats, while the Independents increased their seats by one.

Texas billionaire Ross Perot was the 1996 Reform Party Presidential Candidate. He heavily criticized big government and the budget deficit. In 1992, he amassed more votes than any other independent Presidential candidate in 80 years. He was not that successful in 1996, but he was a very vocal candidate nevertheless.

First Lady Hillary Clinton spoke at the Democratic National Convention. Although Mrs. Clinton was a huge help to her husband's campaign, she was not as active as she was during the 1992 campaign. The 48-year-old First Lady gets to enjoy four more years in the White House.

The Democratic team of President Clinton and Al Gore was victorious in this election. Their campaign focused on getting a strong economy and a lower crime rate. Clinton and Gore have become very close friends since being elected in 1992.

Giving Clinton a "run for his money" was Bob Dole and running mate, Jack Kemp. This Republican team advocated a 15% tax cut across the board during the campaign. If successful, Dole would be the oldest person elected to a first term at age 73.

High school is tough enough, but imagine going to class surrounded with Secret Service agents and having the President of the U.S. coming in for parent/teacher conference! Not many of us know what it feels like, but Chelsea Clinton is used to it. President Clinton was reelected and Chelsea gets to be the first daughter for four more years.

Months after TWA Flight 800 exploded in midair in the summer, investigators were still searching for a cause. The plane was flying to Paris and exploded off of the coast of Long Island, just minutes after taking off. All 230 people on board were killed.

The Dow Jones industrial average hit record highs in late September and closed over 6,000 in October. The spark that kept the markets moving upward was news that suggested that the economy was slowing down, keeping interest rates low.

Fifty-three year old astronaut Shannon Lucid set the women's record for consecutive days in orbit-188-beating out Russian Elena Kondakova. Lucid is also America's most experienced astronaut, having spent 223 days in orbit since 1995.

This Just In

There are three billion people on this planet and almost 200 countries. Hundreds of government officials make critical decisions daily to better the lives of their citizens. If you do the math, that equals up to 365 days a year of breaking news events and unbelievable stories.

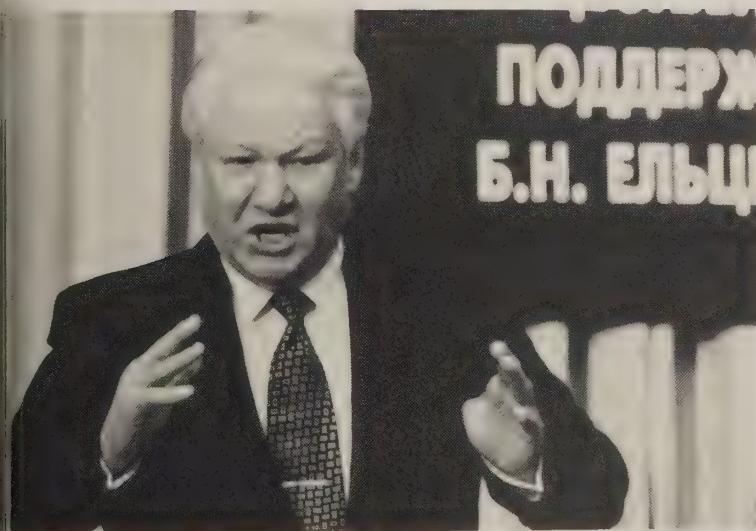

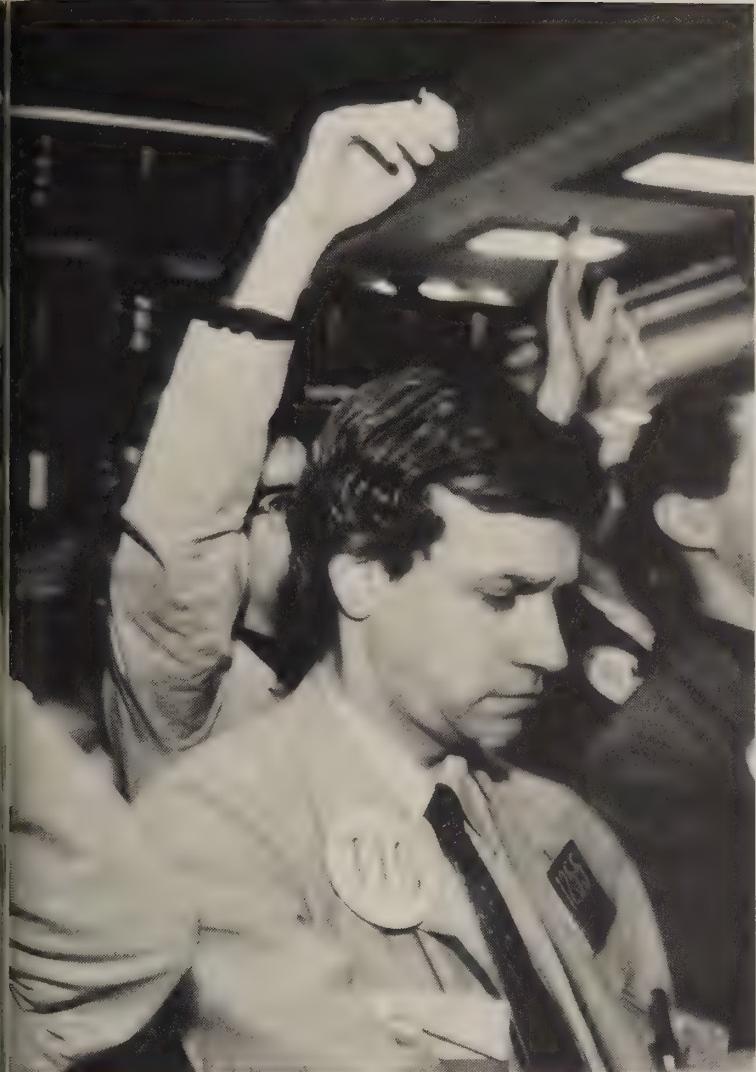

News is constantly happening. Fast-paced and exciting, be careful not to blink or you might miss something! Luckily, with the help of the press, these events are brought to people almost immediately after they happen.

Since so many things occur on a daily basis, it is difficult to pinpoint one particular story that makes a year. This year was no exception. There were a lot of tragic stories, marked by violence and selfish acts. But there were also the joyous stories which brought out the best in people.

It is so important to be aware of what is going on in our world. So much of what happens everyday has an impact on us.

It's scary sometimes, knowing about some of the things that happen on a daily basis around the globe. But by being in tune, maybe we will be able to solve or help prevent some of those problems!

In a runoff election held in July, Boris Yeltsin was reelected president of Russia. Almost immediately after his reelection, Yeltsin began to show signs of severe heart problems. He underwent a heart bypass operation in October. The surgery was considered the only solution to his life-threatening disease.

A crisis erupted in the Middle East after Israel opened a new exit in a tunnel alongside a plateau, raising suspicions among Muslims that the Israeli were seeking to change the delicate religious balance in Jerusalem's Old City.

Hyped as the most popular British rock band since the Beatles is Oasis. Leading the band are the Gallagher brothers. Oasis' first two albums have sold 20 million copies.

An R&B pop singer named Toni Braxton hit the charts about three years ago and hasn't left. Her latest album, Secrets, blends her rich, smooth voice with versatility that continues to grow with each new hit.

One of the most successful groups to come into the scene this year was The Fugees. Their best-selling album The Score featured remakes of songs by Bob Marley and Roberta Flack.

Just three years ago, Jewel was a fledgling singer-songwriter living on carrots and peanut butter sandwiches. Now the 22-year-old Alaskan native has become a smashing success with the recording Pieces of You.

It was just one great hit after another that Alanis Morissette released. Her album, Jagged Little Pill, topped the charts. As one critic put it, "She lashes out at her targets with a fury that makes her music both invigorating and frightening."

The U.S. women's gymnastic team made history in Atlanta by beating out favorites Russia, Ukraine, and Romania for the team gold medal. Kerri Strug became the heroine when she landed the last vault perfectly, despite having an injured ankle.

One of the biggest sports stories this year occurred during the Track & Field events in Atlanta when Michael Johnson won both the 200 and 400 meter races. He ran away with two gold medals-and the shoes to match!

The Men's National Soccer team began qualifying for World Cup '98 in France. One of the most exciting games was a U.S. victory over Guatemala at RFK Stadium in November. The team held practices at GMU before the match that were open to the public.

Fun and Games

A late night concert at Centennial Olympic Park was brought to end when a pipe bomb exploded near the stage. Two people were killed and one hundred were injured. For many people, this brought back haunting images from the Munich Games. Security was tightened and the Games went on despite the tragedy.

Sports reporters and fans had plenty to do this year. Things were going on in all sports. The Yankees won the World Series. The Colorado Avalanche and the Chicago Bulls were trying to defend their championships from last season. Soccer faced a busy year as international teams started qualifying for World Cup '98 and D.C. United won the first MLS Cup. As if these stories weren't enough to keep sports reporters and fans on their toes, 1996 was an Olympic year, with the summer Olympics being held in the U.S.

There were many records set during the Olympics, and they weren't all athletic. There were almost 200 countries competing this year, more than ever before. There was also a record number of athletes competing. Lots of people touted these games as the most commercial in history. Many new sports were introduced this summer to the Olympics including softball and women's soccer.

Lots of people already have their sights set on Sydney, for the 2000 Games. The rest of us, however, will have plenty of other sports action to follow until then!

Lindsey M. Culin

Lindsey,

As you have danced through life, you have become a beautiful, centered, and balanced person-jumping life's high jumps along the way. We are so proud of you and looking forward to supporting you through the future.

We Love You,
"Just Throw It Up"
Mom & Dad

Sarah Moore

Congratulations,
Sarah! I'm so proud of you!

Love,
Mom

Sanjiv Narang

Congratulations Sanj! Words can't express how proud we are of you. Our only wish is that you get everything you ever dreamed of and that you never lose that devilish smile you've had ever since you were little.

Love,
Mom, Dad, & Rajiv

David Nees

In Focus

Colophon

In Focus is the 62nd volume of The Sampler. It was published by Josten's Publishing Company from the Winston-Salem, NC Plant. The plant Representative was Jakki Davis. The Josten's representatives were Pete and Lori Griffin.

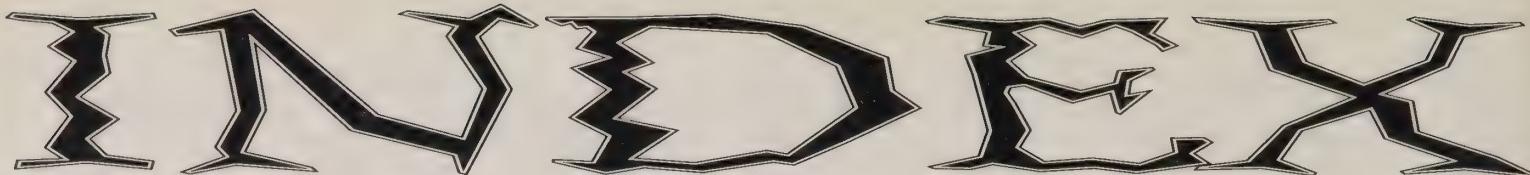

This book is one of 800 copies. The book has 248 pages. It has two signatures of four-color spreads. The size of the book is 9 x 12. The paper used is 80 pound gloss. The cover is lithograph with matte lamination. Cover art was designed by Bob Eyster, the Josten's Professional Graphic Artist. The endsheets (also designed by Eyster) are sterling silver with royal blue colors.

Aldus Pagemaker 5.0 was used to make this yearbook. The copy font was ITC Officina Serif Book. The copy was written in 12 or 14 point size. The captions were written in 8 or 10 point size. The drop cap font for the captions and copy matched the headline. The folio tabs had an 18 point page number and folio tab copy was 14 point.

The headlines were created in Typestyler 2.0 and were imported and placed into Pagemaker. Every section had its own font: Dividers, Quake; Student Life, Prestige Elite; Academics, Airstream ITC; People, Pepita MT; Sports, GillSans Condensed; Organizations, Bellevue; and Community, Goudy Text MT Lombardic.

The Sampler is sold as a Publications Package wth FairFacts, the school newspaper and Matrix, the literary magazine. Packages cost $40.00 in September, $43.00 in October, $45.00 in November and $50.00 the rest of the year. The cost for the Faculty was $25.00. The cost for the staff was $20.00. Faculty and seniors who ordered their books before November 15 received free name engraving.

Steve Blanton/Delmar Studios took all portraits, sports pictures, posed organizations pictures and some candids. All other candids were taken by the Sampler staff. The General Manager for Delmar was Dave Jackson. Photo processing was done by Delmar and Twinbrooke Photo Craft.
